VOL. XXIX. OAKLAND, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1889.—TWELVE PAGES. NO. 131.

THE REPUBLICANS

Who Would Like to Be Governor of California.

IT IS A VERY OPEN RACE AT PRESENT.

Waterman — Markham — Morrow — Gregory—Coombs—Reed—Hilborn—Dimond—McComb.

Certainly if we read aright the signs of the times and the political lessons of the years, California is far more apt to elect Republican than Democratic candidates at the election next November, and yet the Republican aspirants for the Gubernatorial nomination seem to be far less numerous than the Democratic, and they are certainly making far less hue and cry as they take the scent, and leg along on the trail of fleeting honors and emoluments. Ask any of the corner loungers in San Francisco, and if he has so much as a bowing acquaintance with a politician he will reel you off a list of a dozen Democratic war horses who are sniffing the battle from afar off or listening for the thunders of the captains and the shouting. But even among the very elect of the Republican chosen ones there are few who have heard of more than three candidates in that party, and of these three one says he doesn't want it, and is believed to be looking for something else.

Aside from these three, men are merely conjectured as likely to be in the fight. They are "mentioned" either because of past essays or geographical appropriateness. They may fade out of view entirely before the day when the charge is ordered, when the mud is hurtling, and when reputations, hopes, and ambitions are going down under the shock and turmoil of the fray. Then again there is the dark horse, who may at any moment shoot out of the wreck and come galloping, thundering down the stretch just before the convention, his dark nose quickly showing in front of field horses and favorites, one by one, until he dashes under the wire, winning in a gallop, hands down, while the woman applaud without knowing why, and the "talent" stands with mouth agape, wondering how all their best laid schemes could so gang agley. This is apt to be a good campaign for a dark horse, for so far as has yet developed no candidate is apt to have a commanding lead on the first ballot, and the jealousy of locality may prolong and embitter the fight.

First and foremost among the candidates, by reason of his position, if not for his show of strength, is Governor R. W. Waterman, who may hail from San Diego, Sacramento, or Oakland, just as the humor suits him, as he has residences in all three places. During the first months of his term, and while a cantankerous Legislature was harrassing his days and poisoning the spring of his rest, the Governor concluded that the affairs of state decidedly outweighed the honors of place and the plaudits of the multitude. He said he had enough and to spare, and that he would rest content if allowed to go back to his big mines, his big landed and railroad interests, and dwell in the dear, unnoticed delights of private life.

But they roughed the old man a little too hard. Enemies rose up where he had reason to expect friends. Newspapers in and out of his own party attacked him virulently with vituperation and abuse. There were few to rise up and say a good word for him. This riled the gruff old miner. It made him choleric and stubborn. So one day he scattered the lightweights of the opposition with a bombshell. He announced that he would run again to succeed himself, and vindicate the policy of his administration by an appeal to the people. Ever since he has been up and doing, with one end in view—to get that nomination, win the election, and discomfit his detractors.

Anybody who thinks that Governor Waterman will be beaten out of sight is making a large sized mistake. Notice his appointees. Nearly every one of them is an able, active worker with a pull on a certain class. Each man jack of these will be in duty bound to support his political creator. Pixley is almost sure to give him the support of the Argonaut, and to swing as many of the old American legions his way as he can contract for. Pixley was made Yosemite Commissioner. Bruck and the Spirit of the Times will do the same. W. W. Stow, appointed Park Commissioner, is one of the best manipulators on the coast, a graduate from the school of railroad political engineering. C. O. Alexander and W. H. Brown, Harbor Commissioners, are sharp-eyed politicians, each with a personal following, and with the control of the great water front vote. They will certainly show their gratitude for past favors. J. N. E. Wilson, who will soon take his place as Insurance Commissioner, is just as apt as not to be the successor of Bill Higgins as San Francisco's political dictator. That would make things loom very large for his excellency, wouldn't it? And so it goes all up and down the line. The workers of the party have been given the places, and they will certainly "stand in" when the old chief sounds the call to arms.

Then, again, the Governor has been doing some very effective work at the country fairs, at the citrus fairs and at the meeting of the Grangers. He may be a poor hand at oratory and a total failure as a presiding officer; he may not shine in a ballroom or at the review of a parade, but few men can chuck a baby under the chin with a more patriarchal contemplation, compliment a young mother with more hearty appreciation, or condole sympathizingly with a back country farmer over the loss of a cow. And the rough farmers and miners like to have one of their own kind in power. Then they don't seem so far removed from the great white throne of influence and honor. There are bootblacks, teamsters, hackmen, peddlers, barbers, tradesmen, hewers of wood and drawers of water all up and down this good broad land to-day who remember with a delicious thrill the warm pressure of the Governor of California's hand. Now all this helps, and people who think that R. W. Waterman isn't "in it" may get run over if they don't keep out of his way. He can afford the luxury of a campaign, too, which is a good thing in its way.

The man who is worrying Governor Waterman most over the control of the Southern California vote is ex-Congressman Markham of Pasadena. The southern tier of counties has recently developed such strong Republican tendencies that it is in a position to call for the first place on the ticket with something more than wind behind the demand. Then the Republicans haven't given the South a chance at that first place in many and many a long year. Waterman, of course, getting the prize by the award of death and natural succession. Well, Markham is "out for the stuff." There is a great deal heard of him nowadays. He is everywhere looked upon as a strong man. When it comes to a tussle between Markham and the Governor for the Southern California support the fur is going to fly. Markham fights hard. This was shown when he walked away with the persimmon in a district which a Democratic Legislature gerrymandered to make it sure for that party for all time to come. Markham beat them on the first rattle out of the box of political chance. He made a good Congressman and could have been renominated and re-elected like falling off a log if he hadn't tired of life at Washington and refused.

Markham came to California from Milwaukee. He has lots of money, a good address, appears well in society, lives in Pasadena and is interested in a big furniture enterprise at Los Angeles. He is an old soldier, a veteran of the late unpleasantness, which is a good thing to be in these parlous political times, though he has never posed as a patriot for revenue only. Though not an eloquent man in the tongue-y sense of the word, he is a strong, forcible and convincing speaker and an indefatigable worker. Though a lawyer by profession, he has never practiced in this State, and so can appeal to the public as a substantial merchant and thorough going citizen. He is making good progress in his preliminary canvass at the south, and the Los Angeles delegation is quite sure to be solidly behind him to barter and trade in his interest.

The name of Congressman W. W. Morrow is, perhaps, most frequently mentioned in San Francisco in connection with the nomination, and the opinion is rather freely expressed that he can get it if he will make an effort for it. But there is a great, big question whether he is in the fight at all. He has said to many of his friends that he doesn't want the nomination, but he has never said so publicly or authoritatively. The impression is general that Morrow would like to succeed Judge Sawyer on the bench of the United States Circuit Court. That is a place to which he would naturally aspire, being a lawyer, and, as it is a sitting for life, or during good behavior, it becomes a pleasant haven of rest after the toil and travail of active, aggressive politics.

Morrow has been active and aggressive as much as any politician in the State. He has fought his way to fame by giving and taking hard knocks. Thrice elected in a Democratic stronghold, he has retained a great popularity with the masses, and the saying "he could have the nomination if he would go for it," is probably very near the truth. Morrow is a good, logical speaker, has a good presence, the demeanor of a courtier, and a big fund of policy, backed by a load of good hard sense. Probably if he should get into the fight heart and soul it would be impossible to win San Francisco away from him, and as he has worked into a sort of position as leader of the coast delegation in the lower House the country has come to know him almost as well as his constituency. He may yet be out for the nomination, and he may hold to his determination to concentrate on the Circuit judgeship. A few months now must tell the tale, as things are shaping themselves very rapidly.

These are the three men most generally mentioned among the leading politicians. Then come two Native Sons, who would like to rise and shine. The first is Eugene Gregory, the handsome Mayor of Sacramento. He it was who accomplished the task of defeating John Q. Brown, something for many years deemed impossible in the City of the Sacrament. Gregory has made a good mayor and a successful merchant. He is what people call a "good fellow," with lots of affability and plenty of sense. Sacramento will undoubtedly give him a delegation, and if he doesn't get the first place on the ticket, and that first place should go to the south, he would be in a good position, politically and geographically, to take the nomination for Lieutenant Governor. The older politicians say Gregory is too young, but young men have been upsetting the plans of the older heads in recent years, and Gregory is quite the stripe of man to cause another upset if the opportunity offers.

Frank Coombs of Napa is the other Native Son, and he is said to be fully as popular in that indirectly influential order as Mayor Gregory. Coombs is a rustler. He has been in the Assembly two or more terms, and at the last session was one of the leaders on the Republican side. As a speaker and debater he has far more than the usual allotment of eloquence and logic, and, what is more valuable in a political fight, has a rare faculty of making and holding friends. Coombs may or may not carry away this nomination, but he is sure to get some of the big plums before long. He is in a first class district this year with little or no opposition, and may come down to a convention with an astonishing backing.

Charles F. Reed "of Yolo," as he was so long known, though his Yolo possessions were swept away by the big wheat collapse, is often mentioned as an available man. He has been in the fight before, and has a certain underlying popularity which may come to the surface at any time. He is a genial gentleman, and sympathy for the loss of his magnificent Yolo property might give him a sudden boost into power. But there is a rumor on the street that he has reconstructed his shattered fortunes by a lucky strike in some Arizona mining property, so the sympathy might all be thrown away. Mr. Reed has as yet given no sign as to whether he still covets the honor or not. He would certainly do credit to the State for his presence is superb and his manner gently dignified

Judge S. G. Hilborn's name has been suggested as a possible nominee. He might be Alameda county's candidate, as he has made Oakland his home in recent years, and Solano might give him a lift for old time's sake. The two counties combined would give a man a powerful boost. Mr. Hilborn is known as a brilliant conversationalist and a good lawyer, and he left an enviable record behind him after serving a term as United States District Attorney.

General John McComb, Warden of San Quentin, is another of the possibilities. He has been prominent in former years, and might again; but Governor Waterman stood by him so heartily during his letter writing troubles that it might look like a piece of political ingratitude for him to stand aloof now when the Governor needs the support of all his friends. Still, could McComb get all the candidates and all his enemies down to table with him, give them his good wine, feed them on his pet dishes, and tell them his good stories, they'd all declare for him to a man, for no one can entertain like genial John McComb. What a fine old Governor he would make too, this amiable penologist, journalist, and gourmet!

Some people still will have it that General W. H. Dimond will make another try for the nomination. Those who remember his stout fight of three years ago, and how he gave Swift and Harrison a hard battle, will see that he might not be an easy man to beat. After Swift's defeat there were many who said it would not have been so had Dimond been the white-plumed Navarre who led the hosts. "But," protest some, "Dimond has the Mint. What more does he want?" But it must be remembered that General Dimond is in a position in life where the salary and influence of a position amount to little. What he wants is the honor of place, and certainly the elective office of Governor is far ahead of the appointed position of Superintendent of the Mint. General Dimond may or may not essay to get that nomination again, but if he does his work for the party as Chairman of the State Central Committee, his position in the world of business, and his efforts on behalf of the National Guard, will rally many strong friends to his side. Still he has not yet announced himself.

These are about all the Republican candidates generally talked about on the street, in the clubs and at public meetings. Of course others will crop up from day to day as the time for the conventions draws near, and many localities undoubtedly have pet candidates in training, who may come into general notice at any moment. It is altogether too early yet for predictions, and the dark horse may be being groomed in a corner where no one looks.

THE UNWASHED.

SAID TO BE TRUE.

Why a Baptist Minister Refused to Baptize.

Boston Courier.

The following is a true story and is well worth printing. Two young ladies of this city were desirous of joining one of the prominent Episcopalian churches, but as they had been taught that immersion was the true form of baptism, they wished, on joining themselves to the church, to be baptized in that manner. They stated their wishes to the pastor and he expressed himself entirely willing to administer the ordinance in that form, but as there were no conveniences in the church edifice for the purpose it would be necessary to go outside—to the frog pond on the common or the pretty lakelet in the Public Garden. They looked upon this proposal with horror. They could not think of it, could not think of making such a spectacle of themselves.

"Then," said the genial pastor, "you had better go to a Baptist church for the purpose, and after baptism, if you desire it, you will be received into the Episcopalian fold."

The ladies were delighted with the suggestion, and as soon as convenient called upon a prominent Baptist pastor and made known their wish to be baptized.

"Certainly," replied the pastor, "but there are certain preliminaries to be gone through before baptism, certain preparations to be made. It is a solemn ordinance, one not to be lightly submitted to, and, by the way, it appears to me strange that you have not previously consulted me, that the preparations so necessary——"

"Oh! we are already prepared," said the young ladies.

"Already prepared?"

"Yes; we do not intend to become members of your church; we only want to be baptized as we believe immersion to be the proper form of baptism. We are going to join the Episcopalian Church."

"Oh! that's it," said the pastor, rising. "Then, permit me to inform you, my dear young ladies, that we do not wash Episcopalian sheep here."

A SEVERE SHOCK

To Society on Both Sides of the Bay.

WAS THE GERMAN LED BY A BUTLER?

Some Warlike Passages That Ended in a Peaceful Way—A Visit to a Shady Resort.

Society on both sides of the bay recently received a shock. A rumor started, spread, flew, that Charlton Sellinger of San Rafael, the leader of the german, the glass of fashion and mold of form had once been a butler. Fond mammas with daughters whom Sellinger had steered safely along the thorny paths of their rosebud days, let their eyes flop up until the whites showed like horrified eggshells. The rosebuds themselves didn't take it so badly. They had thought on the quiet of eloping with a butler, and Sellinger would really make a very handsome butler to elope with. The papas of the upper tribes rather enjoyed the thing as a joke, but one or two weazened soap boilers' daughters thought it was about time to cut the young man the next time they met.

The rumor made the seven days' sensation for the family circle and balcony grades of society, though it was little heard of in the boxes and dress circle, and was absolutely unknown to the gallery. It was losing its freshness a bit when Sellinger heard of it himself. Of course he didn't like it. It's not a fine thing to be called a butler. It made his soul sick within him—but not for long. His proud manner came to his rescue. He said to himself: "I will go forth and run down this base and unprovoked slander; and as for the slanderer—well, I'll find who he is."

He had not gone far when, like the detective of the daily fable, he got on the track. Someone told him that Ed Cadman, our own Elks Oakland Ed, was the man who had cast the blight upon his fair young society fame. Why Cadman should desire to do him wrong he couldn't say. He had certainly never crossed his path in love, for everybody knew that Ed Cadman was as incapable of facing in love as a last year's walnut. They couldn't have clashed in business, for he did business entirely for and with Uncle Sam, while Ed had no transactions except with Queen Victoria. So why could this man wish to make him appear like a menial in the eyes of the world. He would go down to the office and see.

So one day last week while Cadman was busily engaged figuring charters in pounds, shillings, and pence he was pained and surprised to receive a visit from Sellinger. Such a thing had never occurred before. Mr. Sellinger, though eminent in his way, is not exactly a member of Mr. Cadman's set; and as for Mr. Cadman, though he does some things very well, he can't compose and dance the figures of a german with that grace which so well becomes a gentleman of Mr. Sellinger's American birth and breeding. So Mr. Cadman hardly knew to what he was to attribute the visit.

But he was not kept long in doubt. Mr. Sellinger hemmed and hawed a little, like one who hesitates to approach a dish of onions or any other unpleasant subject, and then asked a bit imperiously:

"Why have you called me a butler?"

All trace of the Englishman at once faded from Mr. Cadman's face and tone. Surprise made him forget everything but Mr. Sellinger and his singular question. First he was alarmed; next angry; then amused.

"But I haven't said that you were a butler, nor a churchman, nor a salesgentleman, nor any other kind of man, woman, or beast. Really, my dear sir, I can't remember ever having mentioned you at all."

Cadman's sincerity was apparent—so apparent that it convinced even the angry Sellinger. The latter was taken quite aback, however, as he felt sure of his position and had come fully prepared to make trouble. After an exchange of apologies and expressions of mutual esteem, faked on one side at least, Sellinger asked in a musing, introspective way:

"What do you suppose could have prompted anyone to spread such a calumny?"

"Envy of your social position, probably," replied Cadman, concealing a tinge of sarcasm so that the other might not detect it.

"But I have never sought these social honors," returned Sellinger with fervor, "they have been thrust upon me." With this he assumed the dejected demeanor of one borne down by woe and the weight of his duty to society. Then he went on: "I never was a butler nor was there ever a menial in the long line of my illustrious ancestry."

Thereupon he enumerated the branches of his family tree back to the days of his great, great grandsire, who was a respectable enough baron for those degenerate days. From his account of his tribal history there could be no doubt of his blue, blue blood, even if he lacked a few points of descent from Belted Will o' the North.

"And I am myself of proud Southern blood," he added at the conclusion of his genealogical discourse. "I had rather be called a convict or a thief than one of those low fellows. Could I but find the man who started that libelous report I would call him to account—challenge him to face me, man to man, with whatever weapons he might choose. I will run him down yet, and then he shall hear from me."

Thereupon the enraged society leader, redder i' the face than in the perspiring moments immediately succeeding the struggle with a new figure of the german, stalked grandly from the room, leaving Mr. Cadman to shudder in his place, palsied by the thought of what might have been had he been so inconsiderate as to say that Mr. Sellinger had been, in the days of his youth, a liveried menial.

I was introduced to something new and popular in the way of entertainment the other evening, and though I cannot recommend its introduction as a feature of church fairs and charity bazars, there is no possibility of doubt as to its increasing popularity among those children of the night, in the city over the bay, who know how to live well, and who are ever on the alert for something which will excite their somewhat atrophied sense of pleasure.

We were banqueting at the Maison Riche, a baker's dozen or more of us, all men. That is I was the only plain man of the lot, the others being all swells of the first water, millionaires' sons, millionaires in their own right, and those other good fellows who somehow manage to live like and with millionaires without any visible means of support. But, at any rate, we were all males; and the dinner went round as stag dinners do, the stories rather more spicy than the viands and the wit as sparkling as if less elevating than the wine.

After the nuts and the coffee and the cigars, and during a bit of a drag in the conversation, one said:

"Let's go down and see Ah Wah!"

"It goes!" replied half a dozen of the party with one accord.

Then there was unusual interest displayed. Coats and hats were put on without waiting for the assistance of the servitors. John Sonnh's bill (a smasher) was paid by a mere nod of the head, and the man who had proposed Ah Wah as a divertisement, a gray haired chap with a charming young wife, led the way into Chinatown.

The Chinatown of San Francisco is probably the wickedest spot in all the world. It is more wicked than anything Chinese, for in their native land they don't dare be so bad for fear of losing their heads. People who "do" the regulation trip through Chinatown with a guide see a great deal that is not alluring, but they don't see half what is known to the regular habitues of the place. Ah Wah's is not the worst feature of the district, but neither is it the best.

Our party was evidently known in the house of the Chinese merchant, for we were met at a barred door, which opened to a knock, and were thence ushered along a far, dim passageway into a large, open room, rather handsomely decorated with draperies and the weird bric-a-brac of the Orient. Here we met Ah Wah, well fed, well looking, sleek, and affable. The white lining of his rich coat sleeve was turned back, to indicate his position in the community—as merry a highbinder as ever cut a throat or used an iron bar.

The host motioned us to divans, and had us served with liquor, into which all the demons of the pit seemed to have been compressed. It set the brain on fire and made the blood seethe. Do you remember Thomas Bailey Aldrich's beautiful bit of poetry, "When the Sultan Goes to Ispahan"? Do you recall

And then at a wave of her jeweled hand
The dancing girls of Samarcand
Float in like mists from faery land?

Well, that was just what happened there in that rich back room in the filthy heart of this Occidental piece of Orientalism. A round dozen of "merchant's wives" who were smuggled into this country less than six weeks ago, tripped into the room and began a dance to the droning of a Chinese string band. They were painted and blackened after the manner of their kind, but they were young and graceful, every last one of them. Their eyes and teeth gleamed and glittered. They began sedately enough, but——

Permit me to say that I did not stay to see what occurred later on. But I know the process in were not like a prayer meeting at the Young Men's Christian Association. I know, for I have been told, that the dance grew mad as the hours went on, and that fierce liqueur went round. The dancers were never so overdraped as to interfere with the freedom and grace of their movements. After each succeeding dance their costume became more and more simple, and less and less oppressive. Still, I say this from hearsay, for I left, as I have said, before the real fun began. All that I can say is that when I met that gray-haired tempter of the young the next evening he looked shaky.

"You should have stayed with us," he said. "It was a great evening."

And this is the new fad among the wicked men of the city on the shady side of the bay. THE PHARISEE.

British Pidjin.

Pittsburg Dispatch.

Some one should get up an American glossary, to be appended to our guide books, for the benefit of English visitors. A few hints, at least, as to words having different meanings in the New and Old World dialects might be really useful. For instance, it would prevent our transatlantic cousins from asking for "a pair of boots" when they want what we call "a pair of shoes." I heard a worthy gentleman, all the way from Lancashire, make that mistake in a downtown shoestore the other day. Boots were produced, indeed, but not the sort of boots the Britisher had expected. It was some time before the truth came out, that patent leather shoes were the objects of his desire.

The same gentleman roundly asserted that England was "a great corn country," but it turned out that he meant oats, wheat, and barley, when he spoke of "corn."

Captain A——, a young Irishman, "doing America, dontcherknow," strolled out of the Union depot last July, and requested a lounging employe to get him a "car." Of course the gay dragoon imagined himself back in the land of "jaunting cars" again; but the employe thought it was a cruel jest on Pittsburg, and angrily inquired if the gentleman wouldn't "want an engine, too."

SWAMP ANGELS.

A Strange Story of a North Carolina Feud.

AVENGING THEIR PARENTS' MURDER.

How the Lowry Boys Terrorized a Whole County and Defied the Laws of a State.

Who that read the newspapers twenty years ago does not remember the deeds of the Lowry gang, or "Swamp Angels," whose headquarters were in and around Scrabbleton, Robeson county, N. C.? More terrible than the Hatfields, as daring as the James boys, the Lowrys for over four years defied and held at bay county sheriffs and the legal arms of North Carolina. There are those who will tremble when they hear that Henry Berry Lowry still lives. A Chicago News writer talked with a prominent North Carolinian who assures him that the famous leader is in the flesh, and can be found when the time comes.

A quarter of a century before the civil war a vessel was wrecked upon the North Carolina coast under somewhat suspicious circumstances. Her captain, a Portuguese, went to the interior of North Carolina and, being a good judge of land, bought a fertile estate in Robeson county. Here he soon married a creole woman with a trace of colored blood in her veins.

The Portuguese captain, to return, cut off from his neighbors, partly by his lonely location, partly by his birth and marriage, and still more by inclination, lived a quiet life, hunting in the neighboring woods and swamps, raising corn, tobacco, and cotton for a little ready money and distilling spirits for his own use. When the war broke out a half dozen stalwart sons and several daughters had grown up around him. The girls were magnificent brunettes, adorned with more than ordinary comeliness, and the sons were splendid specimens of manhood, powerful in physique, dead shots, daring riders, and as handsome as Spanish toreadors. By marriage the sons and daughters had attached several families and powerful interests to the Lowrys. Like many North Carolinians, they were intense Unionists, and after the attack on Fort Sumter found themselves between two fires.

Robeson county is on the South Carolina line, and Cheraw, with its hotheaded secessionists, was but a half-day's ride to the west. In order to avoid conscription on himself and his kinsman, one McLean, a leading citizen of Robeson, organized a "home guard," one of those unpopular organizations which sprung up all over the South, with the sole purpose of acting as draft gangs to force their unwilling neighbors to take up arms for the Southern Confederacy. The McNeils and McClarys, kinsmen of McLean, made up its membership. Along in 1863, after numerous unsuccessful attempts to capture the Lowry boys, Captain McLean, with his press gang, one day rode up to the Lowry house, called out Captain Lowry, then past his prime, and ordered him to tell the hiding place of the boys. He refused. Infuriated, they stripped him to the waist, bound him to a tree, and gave him 100 lashes. His back and arms a mass of cut and bleeding flesh, the heroic Portuguese still refused to betray his sons. Turning him around, they riddled him with bullets, and he fell, dying, to the ground, hissing maledictions in his native language through his clinched teeth on his murderers. With mingled fear and fury—fear lest a witness might be left, fury that their vengeance should be balked—the press gang strove to wrest the secret from Mrs. Lowry.

"D—— her; give the wench the same treatment!" shouted one of the marauders. In a moment she, too, fell dead by her murdered husband. Their foul deeds done, but baffled of the prey they sought, the home guards fled toward Lumberton. By their crime a feud was born.

When Harry Lowry discovered the dead bodies of his father and mother he gathered the family and made them swear never to cease their vengeance while a McLean, a McNeal or a McClary was left alive in Robenson county. The times were unpropitious then for carrying on their feud. It slumbered, and the Lowrys bided their time. In 1867 a McLean was shot near Lumberton. The following year two McLeans and a McNeil were killed, and Robeson county awoke to the fact that the feud was on. Before 1869 had closed half a dozen of the three offending families had bitten the dust and the Lowrys had hardly begun. Sheriff after sheriff sought to arrest them and failed. In the impenetrable recesses of the swamps the Lowrys hid, emerging on their errands of death through paths known only to themselves. Yet when a month or two of peace had brought a seeming respite, the Lowrys, armed to the teeth, would ride the highways of Robeson, dash through the streets of Lumberton, and even strike across the line to Cheraw. Once Henry Berry Lowry was captured. He immediately escaped. Again he was captured and taken to the Wilmington jail for safe keeping. It was there that the writer's informant interviewed him.

"I was prejudiced against the Lowrys," said he. "I had known nothing of their side of the story until an old Methodist preacher had told me, when he heard of Henry Lowry's capture, of the strong sympathy which many people had for the 'swamp angels.' I was allowed to see him in the debtors' room of the jail. When the outlaw leader, with a dozen prices on his head, entered the apartment I saw a man of 30 odd years, tall and splendidly proportioned, herculean even, with a dark Spanish face, an expression of absolute command and fearlessness. A full growth of jet black curling hair covered his head, and coal black eyes gleamed from beneath heavy brows.

"'I have heard of you,' said he to me. 'I am told that you are a brave, honest man. I want you to come down to Scrabbleton. I will give you a safe pass and the best of treatment, tell you the whole history of our warfare, and prove to you the wrongs we have suffered.'

"The swamp angel smiled. 'I shall escape from here,' said he. 'The jail is not built that will hold me long. You can tell the Sheriff that if you wish.'

"Sure enough he did escape, and I went on a mission to Scrabbleton. This will be the first time this story has been published. I met Lowry and he took me to the ancestral home. There he told the whole family history, pointed out the place where his parents were shot down, the tree where his father was lashed.

"'We were Union men,' said he. 'None of us lifted a finger for the Confederacy. That is why the State so readily lends its aid to hunt us down. No Lowry ever owned a slave. When we bought a negro we set him free, and the big slaveholding planters hated us for it.'

"Finally he brought out the big brass locked family bible and opened it to the record pages.

"'There,' said he, pointing to a page, 'is the recorded oath of vengeance. We have sworn never to stay hand while we live and a McLean, McNeil, or a McClary is left in Robeson, and we never will.'"

Once Henry Berry Lowry's wife, Rhoda, was taken prisoner and put in Lumberton jail as a hostage. Her captors thought that by holding her they could compel the surrender of her husband. He immediately sent word that if she was not released at once he would burn Lumberton to the ground before morning. So great was the terror of the community that they not only made the Sheriff release her, but put her in a carriage and carried her home.

After this matters grew worse. A score or more of the three offending families were killed, with an occasional Lowry to even matters. Rewards were increased. Parties, organized to hunt the Lowrys, went boldly into the swamps of Robeson and never emerged. The swamp angels seemed to be endowed with a charmed life. They seemed to have utterly put aside caution. A swamp angel would calmly board a train and ride for miles with a Sheriff, who, he knew, had a warrant for his arrest, would stop the cars in a piece of woods and step off. All the dangerous characters in the Carolinas naturally drifted to the swamp angels, until a hundred or more, negroes and whites, held the border in a condition of absolute terror. As might be expected, depredations were then committed on people who had no part in the feud, and crimes were ascribed to the Lowrys of which they were entirely innocent.

Finally, in 1872, the State put forth a strenuous effort, and the gang was crushed out. One of the Lowry boys was shot; one or two were hanged, and one sent to prison. Henry Berry Lowry escaped, and, with several of his fellows, was supposed to have joined fortunes with the James boys. If so he was never captured, and his whereabouts are unknown save to a few intimate friends and relatives, who guard well the secret. Numbers of his followers can still be found around Robeson county. They live around Scrabbleton, where a Yankee named Hayes, an ex-soldier, keeps store, runs the postoffice, and is king bee of the whole region. Many of the swamp angels have since given the revenue officials a world of trouble over moonshine whisky.

JONES OF BUTTE.

A Sketch of the Life of a Typical Californian.

A Native Son of Good Stock—At School in Oakland—A Yale Graduate—The State Senate.

"In spite of all temptation
To belong to other nations,
He remains a Californian."

Hon. Albert Foster Jones is a native of Colusa county, California, his birthplace was at Antelope valley, February 14, 1853, and he is now in his thirty-second year. His father, George F. Jones, was a native of Hillsborough, New Hampshire, and came to California in the days of '49, and followed mining, hotel keeping, stock raising, farming, and mercantile life in Sacramento, Shasta, Colusa, and Butte counties until his death in 1878 at Chico, leaving a moderate fortune. His mother, Lidnia McIntosh, was born at Cynthiana, Ky., and still lives on her farm near Chico at the age of 57 years, surrounded by many of her children and grandchildren. John R. Robinson, assistant cashier of the Bank of Butte County; J. H. Wheeler of Melrose, late president of the State Viticultural Society, and J. A. Turner, Assistant Adjutant General under Governor Perkins, married daughters of the family.

The subject of this sketch earned his first dollar in the town of Colusa when about 5 years of age by recitations of poetical sketches to a crowd of people from a dry goods box on the sidewalk, and has continued to make speeches ever since.

Endowed with a remarkable memory, he passed through all the common schools of Colusa and Butte counties at an early age, and when 14 worked for two years as a grocery clerk in his father's store, spending his leisure hours in reading historical and political works, of which he soon accumulated quite a library. At the age of 16 years a taste for the legal profession began to develop, and his studies were prosecuted at the Golden Gate Academy in Oakland, and the University Mound at San Francisco. Among his schoolmates were General R. P. Hammond Jr., Richard and Porter Ashe, Dr. A. H. Bailey, Clinton Tinny, and F. J. Vassault. At 18 he entered Yale College, but, not having money to justify a complete course in both departments, he spent one year in a literary and scientific course, and two in the law college, continuing the literary course at the same time, and in June, 1879, graduated with the degree of LL. B., with honors, and was admitted to practice in the Supreme Court of Connecticut. In August, 1879, he was admitted to the Supreme Court of California, and has since been admitted to practice in the United States courts of this district. Possessing a powerful physique during his collegiate career, he carried away prizes for boating and hunting, was one of the college rifle team and during the vacation of 1877, in company with a fellow student, tramped, with his blankets on his back, through Connecticut, New York, and into Canada, purchased a canoe at the headwaters of the Hudson river and returned to New Haven down the Hudson and by Long Island Sound, a walk of 400 miles and boating 300, just to see the country, and learn tramp life.

Engaging in the practice of law at Oroville in 1880, Senator Jones met with remarkable success in his profession, and was married in 1881 to Miss Mary Evans at Oakland, and two bright and beautiful children now grace his home.

Elected District Attorney of Butte county in 1882 by the largest majority of any candidate, he proved a successful and energetic prosecutor, making sixty-one convictions out of sixty-seven cases of felony, and reduced the criminal expenses of the county fifty per cent.

During the past ten years he has taken a great interest in the National Guard, being Major and Judge Advocate on the staff of General Cadawalader from February, 1880, until February, 1887, when he was appointed Colonel and Aid de Camp on the staff of Governor Bartlett, being retained by Governor Waterman in the same position. In the Senate he has always served on the Committee on Military Affairs, and earnestly advocated the cause of the National Guard.

Elected Senator from Butte county in 1886 by a majority of four hundred, he served in the twenty-eighth session as chairman of the Committee on State Prisons, and a member of the Military Education and Fish and Game Committees. It was while on duty of the last committee that he was snowbound at Cisco, and received a basket of wine from J. K. Armsby of Chicago, who supposed him to be Jones of Nevada. It is needless to say that the wine was not returned.

Devoting much time to educational matters, Senator Jones succeeded in passing a bill to erect a State Normal School in northern California, which was located at Chico, and was a strong supporter of Vrooman's Educational bill. He was rarely absent at roll call, quick in debate, courteous and energetic, and often called to the chair by the presiding officer. Independent and fearless, he rose to a question of privilege and defended the then president of the Senate, Governor Waterman, from all attempts to take advantage of the president's lack of knowledge of parliamentary tactics.

At the twenty-ninth session Senator Jones was one of the acknowledged leaders in the Senate, keeping scrupulously clear of all scandals, never absent, he fulfilled the arduous duties of chairman of the Judiciary Committee, a position never before held by so young a man, faithfully and impartially, and often voted at the dictates of his conscience and keen sense of right against the wishes of his party and fellow senators.

In fraternal circles Senator Jones is well known and has attained many honors. As a Mason he has taken all the degrees to Knights Templar and the Mystic Shrine.

As an Odd Fellow he has been elected a delegate to the Grand Lodge and Grand Encampment, being selected in both to deliver the jewels to the retiring masters.

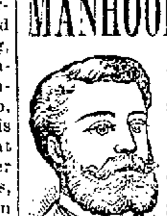

As a Native Son of the Golden West he has been elected grand lecturer and grand president, the last position being held in 1883, in the infancy of the order, when but three men had held that position, and has made the success of the order his favorite labor.

The rapid advancement of Butte county during the last few years gained its first impetus from the energy and foresight of Senator Jones and his business associates, and he has never tired in laboring for the advancement of Butte county, though the depression in real estate two years ago would have resulted in financial bankruptcy of several enterprises but for the exercise of his keen business talent and well known integrity, which carried them over the breakers to present success.

Personally Senator Jones is above medium height, somewhat fleshy in appearance, of good health, neat and tidy, wears a luxurious growth of Burnside whiskers, among which the gray hairs are shaded by the black, and which have given him the title of the "Whiskered Senator."

Liberal to a fault, dignified only in appearance, hearty and jovial in disposition, and partaking in the fullest sense of the free and independent nature of a typical Californian, he makes friends on every side, and rarely loses one. His good nature is proverbial and control of temper wonderful. In the hottest debates and amid the most severe attacks he would rise on the floor with a broad smile on his face and reply as politely as if a compliment were tendered him. When criticised, unless his personal honor is assailed, his maxim is, "My life is too short to stop and kick every cur that barks at me." A beautiful home, surrounded by flowers and orange groves, is the place most enjoyed by the Senator, a California home, where happiness and sunshine and children's voices make life a place of rest, and he often quotes to his visitors as a toast: "The best part of a man's life is in the world of his natural affections, and that realm has joys of its own that neither knows nor heeds kings nor congresses, and is deaf even to the voice of shouting popular majorities, but heeds and obeys the rather the gentle voice of woman, the cry of helpless and feeble childhood."

Closing Exercises, Durant School.

On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. S. J. Hodgdon's class held exercises in commemoration of the anniversary of the birth of John G. Whittier: Essays on Whittier's life, and his connection with the history of the country were read, also recitations and selections from his writings.

The programme was very interesting and was gotten up and conducted entirely by the children, who took great interest in them, showing their veneration for the aged poet.

On Thursday, A Ninth Grade, Mrs. E. H. Hilton, teacher; B Ninth Grade, Mrs. S. J. Hodgdon, teacher; A Seventh grade, Mrs. E. K. Greenman, teacher, and B Eighth Grade, Mrs. E. D. Rynolds, teacher, united in giving the closing exercises of the school, which consisted of songs, recitations, and declamations.

Following is the programme; Song, "Yankee Doodle," by three classes; essay, "Holidays," Louise Hering; declamation, "Tell on his Native Hills," A Ninth class; musical selection, three boys; essay, "Christmas Eve," Ralph Gibbs; duet, "Mount Vernon Bells," Addie Carroll and Ida Gilman; essay, "John G. Clawson School.

Yesterday morning the little pupils of the first grades of the Clawson school gave an interesting and charming entertainment of songs and recitations, illustrating trades, manners, and morals, patriotism, etc. The blackboards of the schoolroom were decorated with sketches of Santa Claus, greetings of the season, and mottoes. Superintendent McClymonds, Directors Marston and Walcott, and many friends enjoyed and commended the earnest and happy little entertainers. Following was the programme: Marching of class with flags, "Marching Through Georgia," song of welcome by the class.

address of welcome by Claude Morton; song, "Upon the Housetop," by class; "Santa Claus," by Carrie Pierce; song, "Christmas Hymn," by Dillie and Billie Rockhill; "Annie's Kiss," by Annie Mitchell; temperance song by the class; Blacksmith's song, by twelve little boys in costume; "Do Your Best," by Reuben Jacobs; "Kitty's Baby," by Alice Johnson; song, "I'm Going to Write to Papa," by twelve little girls; "The Lost Boy," by Matilda Martin; cradle song by twelve little girls; song, "Drummer Boy," by the class; "Santa Claus for President," by Eva Falconer; "Carpenter's Song," by twelve boys in costume; "Politeness," by Martin Matsen; "The birds," by Mabel Ahrens; song, "The Clouds," by the class; "The Little Girl's Dress," by Emma Peckham; song, "The Birdie's Ball," by the class; "Hang Up the Baby's Stockings," by Mamie Murman; song, "Happy Little Fishes," by the class; "Our Flag," by five boys with flags; "Boys Wanted," by Henry Logue; song, "Rock a Bye," by twelve girls with dolls; "Flo's Letter," by Carrie Halowsen; song, "America," by the class; song, "The Night Before Christmas," by Lorin Alexander; "Christmas Song," by the class.

A STICKER FOR ETIQUETTE

J. C. Martin Observes All the Forms of Propriety.

He Did Not Call Upon the President but Waited for the President to Call Upon Him.

Our Chauncey M. Depew—the man who attends to railroads for other men, orator and scholar, gentleman and good fellow—J. C. Martin walked along Broadway in the cold this morning, a top coat of Oakland tweed buttoned tightly to his chin, a distinctively Oakland silk hat poised on his head at exactly the same angle at which it was poised a month ago, the moustache and straggling Imperial unchanged, wearing the same smile he always wears, and his head as full of quaint conceits as ever. Mr. Martin returned last evening from Washington and New York.

"No, I did not travel in a special car this time," said the attorney for the Southern Pacific Company "I rode like any private citizen in a Pullman with the other passengers. I went to Washington directly to appear before the Interstate Commerce Commission in the case of Rice against the Southern Pacific Company, a case in which discrimination in favor of the Standard Oil Company in rates for transportation of oil was charged. The case was heard by the commission, and the day after the hearing the attorney for Mr. Rice, shot himself at the hotel. He was a magnificent looking man, Gowen by name, and a very prominent attorney.

"Did your argument have any effect upon his mind?" said the man who asks questions and is no respector of persons.

"I think something was wrong with his mind," replied Mr. Martin, casting a strabismic glance at a gaunt car of the Tubbs Hotel line, of which line he is a director, "though there was no evidence of mental disorder in his argument. Stubbs's very clear testimony may have had some effect on him. Stubbs was there, you know."

"Did you see any of the California delegation to Congress?"

"I went to the Capitol the last day I was in Washington. I had, a little time to spare. I saw DeHaven and McKenna in the corridor. The House had just adjourned,

"Did you call upon the President?"

I was the stranger in Washington. The President lives there. It was not my place to call first. I am very careful to observe all the forms of etiquette, you know."

ST. JOSEPH'S.

Closing Examinations at This Noted School.

The semi-annual examinations of St. Joseph's Institute on Fifth and Jackson streets were concluded yesterday, the primary department examinations being held in the morning, at which the following programme was rendered: Music, Academy Orchestra; examination, Christian doctrine, first, second and third sections; recitation, Robert and Charles Dunphy; song, "Greeting," singing class; piano solo, "Farewell to the Mountains," S. TRY IT AGAIN.

The Many Attempts to Fix the Grade of the Twelfth Street Dam.

Councilman Wakefield was the patron of the ordinance fixing the grade of the Twelfth street dam, vetoed by the Mayor this week. Mr. Wakefield said this morning that the Mayor is undoubtedly correct in his veto, as a mistake was made in the ordinance in using the word "dedicate," referring to declaration of the street as an open public highway. "A dedication," said the Councilman, "would imply that the city has a title to the property and gives it for use as a street. The ordinance should have declared that the dam now is and has been for a long time used as a public highway."

Mr. Wakefield will present a new ordinance declaring the dam a public highway and fixing the grade. The attempt to fix the grade of the Twelfth street dam has been in progress for months. The only purpose is to order the roadway repaired in order to make traffic over the dam possible without peril to vehicles and drivers. The repair cannot be ordered until the grade has been established. Some defect or omission has vitiated every ordinance yet considered. Now another attempt will be made.

Action to Quiet Title.

Messrs. Sharp and Bolton, the attorneys of the Land Title Company of this city, commenced two actions in the Superior Court this afternoon for Jesse Burris against Elizabeth A. K. McNeil and a number of other defendants to quiet title to a portion of the Kennedy tract at Twenty-third avenue, East Oakland.

The Fashionable Complaint.

Councilman L. H. Wakefield has had the complaint of European royalty, influenza and has been confined to his house from Monday evening until today. He says that the influenza is prevalent in his neighborhood.

MR. SESSIONS

Says Colonel Irish Does Him Injustice.

A CALM REVIEW OF THE BOND ISSUE.

The West Oakland Marshes and the Boulevard on the Lake—The Manner of Submission.

The proposed issue of city improvement bonds, the total amount to be expended, and for what purposes, is a subject of great importance, requiring much more careful investigation and consideration than I have given it, before I should find myself sufficiently well informed to be able to express a positive and conclusive opinion.

A few days ago your reporter interviewed me, asking and obtaining an offhand opinion of the ordinance introduced by Mr. Camron, with the object, I suppose, of drawing out some public discussion to assist in forwarding this matter, which has heretofore hung fire so long.

I stated that the subject of the boulevard and also the West Oakland park were matters which required special consideration as there would be some points difficult to adjust, and suggested that they be made separate counts in the election. Colonel Irish takes me to task, stating that I betray a great lack of interest in the improvements they desire at West Oakland, that I have in the interview shown an improper spirit, insinuating also that I would endeavor to influence the people to vote the boulevard proposition up, and the West Oakland park proposition down, all of which is untrue, totally uncalled for, and quite unlike Colonel Irish's customary fair and honorable way of discussing public matters.

He also states that if the propositions are voted upon separately the entire vote of his section will be cast against the lake boulevard proposition. This is merely a repetition of the threat which has heretofore been made that unless West Oakland got just what it wanted they pledged themselves to defeat any proposition whatever. As to myself, I do not desire to take any active part in this matter, shall work no proposition up or down; neither shall I enter into any newspaper discussion with Colonel Irish, or any other person whatever, as I am not seeking controversy.

As to my views on the boulevard, I thought I made them plain in the interview, to wit: That in my judgment the expense of construction of this work should be borne partially by the adjacent property bordering on the lake, which would be greatly enhanced thereby, giving as a precedent the boulevard on the westerly side of Central Park in New York city. My present opinion is that if this plan or something that would be equivalent to it is not adopted, a popular vote will defeat any issue of bonds for this purpose. As to the proposition for condemnation of marshes at West Oakland for a park and the reclamation and improvement of the same, there is much to be said in its favor, but until the detail as to what is proposed can be more approximately and definitely stated, I should be unprepared to say whether I should vote for it or not.

Any park project is of general interest to the city, without reference to the particular ward in which it is situated. The location of this tract of land, at the entrance, as it were, to the city, as strangers approach it, surely lends to attach no small degree of importance to this project.

I think Colonel Irish does injustice to his subject and his constituents when his argument permits even the inference that that project might not be able to stand on its own merits.

I would like to say right here that I most decidedly favor the immediate repair of the Main Lake sewer wherever it is defective, and it should be treated as a matter of urgency and necessity by the city authorities.

As to Colonel Irish's suggestion that macadam is suitable only for country roads, and that the $107,000 proposed by Mr. Camron's ordinance for a salt water service, might better be expended on bituminous rock pavement, and that the Council should not allow any more streets to be macadamized, and require bituminous rock instead, I think the community will most decidedly not concur, except it be upon a few of the central avenues or business streets. As to the entire subject of issuing of improvement bonds the comments of such individuals as I have heard speak of the matter have been that an expenditure of a reasonable amount for something tangible, definite and calculated to be of general benefit to the city, disbursed without jobbery, would secure favorable consideration at the hands of the public. But a proposition for a million and a half upon an omnibus plan would fail. It is very plainly evident to me that the cause of the marked inclination to hold back on this bond proposition has been the fear of injudicious action and expenditure. I still think that the only fair and acceptable way to meet this matter is by free discussion, without the indulgence on the part of advocates of any particular project of personal reflections against any one who does not freely concur with their views, followed by a ballot on each proposition. Let every proposed improvement stand on its own merits. If not determined to be of sufficient superficial value to be deemed general in its character, or if objectionable to any voter, give him a chance to vote no if he wants to. If not so submitted the whole scheme is likely to be rejected because of some unacceptable sections. E. C. SESSIONS.

HEALTH HINTS.

Some Suggestions Regarding The Treatment of Coughs And Colds.

A cold is usually the symptoms of some disease, the character of the cough denotes the nature of the disease. A cough should never be suppressed but the disease cured, then the cough will stop itself. The most common disease that causes coughing, is a cold When a person takes cold, many of the air cells of the lungs become obstructed with mucus, the coughing is an effort of nature to relieve the lungs and that is the first and most important thing to be done in treating a cold. The lungs should be relieved and the secretions opened, which is the best accomplished by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is the only preparation in use that will cause the expulsion of mucus from the air cells of the lungs. It also renders the mucus less tenacious and easier to expectorate and opens the secretions, aiding nature in relieving the lungs and freeing the system of all morbid matter, effectually curing the cold. It acts in perfect harmony with nature and is the only preparation in common use that does. Nature's way is to open the secretions, render the mucus less tenacious and easier to expectorate and relieve the lungs and that is precisely the effect of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. You ask: "How do we know that is nature's way?" Because if your system is strong enough to stand it nature, will in time relieve it of the cold without the aid of any medicine and that is just the way it goes about it, but many an "iron constitution" has been severely racked by leaving nature alone and unaided to do the work. No one can afford to neglect a cold, as catarrh and chronic bronchitis are caused by neglected colds.

Why Raffling Was Stopped.

The sports are much exercised over the order recently issued by Chief of Police Tompkins ordering all turkey or other raffling stopped, and cannot understand why the order was made. For their benefit it may be said that it is not necessary to raffle because, turkeys may be had just as cheaply at J. B. Baxter's Cable Meat Market, on San Pablo avenue, where the finest meats, and game is always kept on hand at the very lowest prices.

Diogenes Has Sailed.

Diogenes, C. P., has at last found water enough in the streets to float his tub and he has sailed away new countries for to see. On his return he will tell in THE TRIBUNE what his discoveries have been. There is one thing certain however. He cannot find a better place in the world to buy fall and winter suits than at O'Connor's well known establishment, 1010 Broadway, and he will say so in his next letter.

Stewart Is Popular.

The best place in the city to get a fine turkey or meat for the holidays is at the Clinton Market, 311 East Twelfth street, East Oakland. M. J. Stewart, the proprietor, has a splendid stock on hand and the beauty of trading with him is that his meats will be found to be always the best in the market.

Junior High School Party—Opening Ball at the Albany—Various Parties—Gossip.

Opening Ball at the Albany.

The newly completed Albany Hotel at the corner of Fifteenth and Broadway was thrown open last night to a large crowd of invited guests at the grand opening ball given by the proprietress of the hotel, Mrs. J. B. Lakhune. Every room in the house was lit up for the occasion, the parlors were elaborately decorated with smilax, ferns and flowers. The guests began to arrive about 8 o'clock and were received by Mrs. Lakhune. The dining-room was used for the dance hall, and here dancing was indulged in till 11 o'clock, when refreshments were served, after which dancing was continued till midnight, when the guests departed for their homes highly pleased with their evening's enjoyment. Mrs. Lakhune deserves great credit for the way in which the affair was conducted. She was ably assisted by A. B. Fetely, who had charge of the dance, and also by Mr. Hughes, the clerk. The invited guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dooley, Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Captain Sweeney, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Alberger, Mr. and Mrs. Chester G. Cutter, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Junior Debating Society Party.

At the closing of the past term of the Oakland High school a new departure was taken by the Junior Debating Society. Heretofore the Senior Society had had their "busts," the Senior B and Senior A classes their parties, but the Juniors had always closed the term with no unusual exercises. This term, however, through the efforts of the President of the society, Clarence E. Crowell, and several others, it was decided to give an entertainment and social dance, which took place in Washington Hall, East Oakland, on Thursday night. Despite the rainy weather a large crowd was in attendance, and a most enjoyable evening was spent, showing that the High school students do not have to wait until they have reached the senior classes in order to give a successful party. Great credit is due to those who had the management of the affair. Following is the programme of the exercises:

Overture, by orchestra, address of welcome and history of society, by the President, C. E. Crowell. Song "I Am Waiting," Miss Mollie Chase. Address, William Garrill, President of Middle Society. Recitation "Sweet Brier Rose," Miss Maud Bell. Song "Grand Old Ocean," Walter Nicholson. Trio Mandolin and two guitars, William Griffin, Abe Leach, and Arthor Lewis. J. S. Draper and Edwin Engs were called on by the President for a few remarks which they gave.

After the entertainment was over dancing was commenced in the main hall, and games in the parlor. Lunch was served at 11:30 o'clock in the supper room. Those present to participate in the pleasures of the evening were: Misses Maud Chase, Gertie Hatch, Maud Rabe, Maud Bell, Lotta Clough, Anna Stone, Lulu Babcock, Maud Martin, Grace Hilton, Mable Crowell, Belle Van Amerage, Daisy Barger, Josie Harris, Anita Kellogg, Gainor Wilson, Cora Bellengal, Edith Bixby, Annie Drendon, Ethel Mossman, Nina Briggs, May Cobbledick, May Warren, Miss Collier, Miss Snooke, Miss Walcott, Miss McVey, Miss Clarke, Misses Southwick, Misses Swales, Mr. Harris, Mr. McCray, Mr. Scoville, S. P. Bodwell, C. E. Crowell, R. Chestnut, William Cook, E. Ames, W. O. Aiken, Otis Engs, Edward Engs, J. D. Hundley, A. L. McCray, W. L. Mossman, William Pringle, H. Chapman, R. L. Jones, H. Brum, I. J. Chapman, Edward Grove, William Grove, William Gorrill, C. Holton, A. A. Moore Jr., F. G. Chaffer, A. M. Hobbs, William Fine, J. S. Draper, W. L. McCray, C. C. McClellan, R. Guppy, R. McMurtry, I. Sides, Bert Pringle, Abe Leach, L. Goodhue, O. Orendorff, W. Nicholson, Charles Magnagnus, J. Collier, Wright Hardy, Fred Phoeby, C. T. Black, Charles Bowden, L. Morris, D. Barstow, R. Bellingall, O. Gowing, Fred Johns, Harry Torry, A. Lewis, William Griffing, R. Taylor, L. Prowle, Edward Jackson.

The seniors have found that from now on they will have to vie with the lower grades in giving parties at the closing of the term, for the juniors have proven themselves capable of giving as good a party as any that have been given by any of the High school societies.

California Lodge Entertainment.

The entertainment and ball given by California Lodge, No. 251, Ancient Order of United Workmen, at Germania Hall last Wednesday evening was fairly attended. The following programme was rendered: Overture, orchestra; opening address, J. MacLean, master of ceremonies, introducing Grand Master Young; duet, Miss Minnie Bailey and Miss Clara Lynch, pupils of Miss McKenzie; address, William H. Barnes; piano solo, Miss Maggie O'Conell; specialties, Gordon sisters; violin solo, G. Hull; recitation, A. M. Brown; song, G. Hennev; song and dance, Gordon sisters; address, Samuel Booth; violin solo, Miss McKenzie; piano solo, Miss Holland; sword dance, Miss Jennie Kelton.

The entertainment was a good one, and was warmly applauded. After the entertainment dancing was continued till nearly midnight.

The Phillips' Reception.

A reception was given by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Phillips to their many friends at their residence, 977 Sixth avenue, last Monday afternoon and evening. About 600 invitations were issued. Mr. and Mrs. Phillips have just recently returned from a trip to the East, and adopted this means to let their friends know they had returned. The receptions will continue every Monday in December. The house was neatly decorated with flowers and draperies. Mrs. Phillips was assisted in receiving the guests by Miss Mary C. Phillips, and Miss Coles and Miss Phillips of New York, who are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Phillips for the winter.

High School Reception.

Cavalry Hall was the scene of merriment and joy on Wednesday evening last, the occasion being the reception and dance tendered the December class of '89 of the Oakland High School by the May class of '90. The hall was prettily decorated with evergreens, smilax, cassia, pepper and magnolia leaves. The welcoming address was made by W. P. Williamson, and was as follows:

"Friends, schoolmates and instructors: As president of the May class of '90 I welcome you. In extending to you the hospitalities of my class, its officers and members unite in offering you a hearty greeting, expressive not only of the high position which you hold in the history of the Oakland High school, but of the respect and admiration which we cherish for your private character. We welcome you as a class that in its course of three years has left a proud and unsullied record of duties performed in the spirit of obedience and appreciation. Now, as I look into the faces of the happy assembly, I am carried forward, as it were, twenty long years. How changed your life in its every aspect. These young ladies having passed out from their pleasant homes into the great broad world with confiding step and heart, lean each on the arm of a trusted companion and resume their new duties; and these young men—long before that time they will have taken the helm to do their work; they will be absorbed in the great world of travel, adventure, agriculture, invention, manufacture, teaching, legislation and finance. Wherever in the pursuit of life you go, whatever may be your surroundings, whether in the crowded forum or city, amid the solitudes of plain and forest or the trackless deep, you have with you the respect of your schoolmates, the love and esteem of your teachers. Perhaps in these later surroundings you may recall incidents of your school days; let us hope you will look back only upon happy faces and pleasant circumstances.

"As the time for parting draws nigh it is with a pang of regret that we must say good by, many never to meet again. Faithful, however, as has been your work, its completion rests with the future. Rejoicing in the good, grand work you have thus far accomplished I can only hope with yourselves that this class of earnest young men and women may succeed in whatever career you may enter and stand boldly forth as defenders of our country against the defamers of its statutes and the maligners of its honor."

At the conclusion of the address the grand march was formed and about 150 couples took part in it, after which dancing was indulged in until a late hour. P. A. Gilbert's string orchestra furnished excellent music. At eleven o'clock supper was served, which was enjoyed in by all present. The following committees deserve great credit for the way in which the affair was conducted: Committee on arrangements—W. T. Bell, Miss Una Handy, H. W. Horn, Miss Carrie Nicholson, G. M. Fisher. Reception committee—W. F. Williamson, president; Miss Alice Bayley, vice-president; Miss Alice Brown, secretary; G. M. Fisher, treasurer. Floor manager—C. W. Dickey. Floor committee—W. F. Williamson, H. W. Horn, W. T. Bell, W. H. Johnson, H. C. Hobbs.

Among the merry throng were noticed: Miss Lizzie Berry, Miss Mae Bates, Miss Hattie Huggins, Miss Flora Huggins, Miss Ermer Elzy, Miss Nellie Scutchier, Miss Lillie Everson, Miss Mamie Everson, Miss Cora H. Harvey, Miss Carrie Nicholson, Miss Belle Nicholson, Miss Blossom Huntington, Miss Summerfield, Miss Fox, Miss Bessie Stodard, Miss Dot Handy, Miss Mira Lyons, Miss May Smith, Miss Lillie Strong, Miss Mabel Root, Miss Alice Bayley, Miss Maud Worth, Miss Belle Von Amringe, Miss Viola Hinghman, Miss Annie Coleman, Miss Anita Kellogg, Miss Myrtle Walker, Miss Myra Prather, Miss Kate Owen, Miss Lou Beauvais, Miss Hattie Wilder, Miss Grace Kimball, Miss Roberta Conway, Miss Mellie Chase, Miss Alice Brown, Miss Maria McDermott, Miss Hortense Clark, Miss Carrie Merwin, Miss Bertha Strong, Miss Grace Sutton, Miss Alice Stocker, Miss Jessie Newsome, Miss Georgie Reynolds, Miss Carrie Brown, Miss Marie Ferguson, Miss Ball, Miss Carrie Richardson, Miss Clara Lenman, Miss Annie Barrington, Miss Sady Hardy, Miss Nina Mauvais, Miss Bertha Stone, Miss Edith Lilienerantz, Miss Una Handy, Miss Lottie Abbott, Miss Edith Dyer, Miss Elna Harrington, Miss Tillie Gornett, Miss Kate M. Union Veterans' Entertainment.

Union Veterans' Union, Abe Lincoln Command, No. 2, gave a very enjoyable entertainment and dance at College Hall on Thursday evening last. The following interesting programme was presented: Address, Colonel R. Powers; address, Lieutenant Colonel H. K. Stiles; remarks, Major D. Melvin; piano selection, Mrs. Peterson, Mrs. Fisher and Miss Fisher; recitation, "Boy Billy," Miss Valerie Hockethier; vocal duet, Misses Rosie and Sophie Smith; recitation, "Jesse Dean," Miss Etta Rice; banjo duet, S. P. Babcock and A. Aldrich; recitation, "The Ride of Jennie McNeal," Miss Wimbell; bugle solo with echoes, J. C. Darnal; recitation, "John," Charles R. Barker; piano solo, Miss M. Stiles; recitation, Miss A. Reeley; mandolin duet, George Tyler and Harry Allen; closing remarks, J. C. Darnal.

At the conclusion of the entertainment Boston baked beans and brown bread were served, after which dancing was continued until a late hour.

Union Veterans' Union was organized about three years ago, and is composed of men who answered the second call of Abraham Lincoln and fought at the front. There are twenty members in Abe Lincoln Command, No. 2. The officers are as follows: Colonel, Richard Powers; Lieutenant Colonel, H. K. Stiles; Major, D. Melvin; Adjutant and Quartermaster, H. S. Tuttle; Chaplain, George Deal; officer of the day, M. Hogan; officer of the guard, J. C. Darnal.

Enterprise Lodge Entertainment.

Enterprise Lodge, No. 24, Legion of the West, gave a musical and literary entertainment, farce and tableaux at Hamilton Hall last evening for the benefit of the Young Men's Christian Association building fund. The programme was a good one, and the audience were well pleased. The first tableau was entitled "Between Two Fires," and showed a young man between two jealous young girls. "Rock of Ages" was the second tableau, showing the grandmother in her rocking chair, the mother rocking the baby cradle, and the little girl playing with a doll's cradle. A sculptor at work on a statue was the third tableau. About $60 was cleared by the entertainment. The committees in charge were: Mrs. M. C. McDonald, Mrs. Gilmore, Mrs. Gardner, Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. Chester, W. B. Hardy, J. C. Breed and Mr. Carter. The officers of Enterprise Lodge are: C. H. Smith, Commander; Mrs. Thurman, Vice Commander, and W. J. McDonald, Secretary.

Professor Hughes Surprised.

Professor D. P. Hughes, the musical director of the Harmonic Society, was tendered a genuine surprise at his home on Myrtle street last night.

While practicing on a piano a troop of ladies and gentlemen marched in on him, headed by W. T. Hamilton, President of the organization. Mrs. Hughes was as much surprised as her husband, and for a time could hardly find words to express her astonishment. The visitors were cordially invited inside, where a hearty welcome was given them. During the evening the following programme was rendered: Piano solo, "The Trout" (Schubert Heller), by Miss Flora Kendall; trio, "Thro' Murmurous Leaves" (G. Bartel), by lady members of the society; chorus, "Two Roses" (Weiner), gentlemen members of the society; soprano solo, "Bid Me Discourse" (H. R. Bishop), by Mrs. J. A. Campbell; chorus, "Village Dance" (J. A. Halton), by the society. Then came the presentation to Mr. Hughes of an elegant bronze standing lamp, the presentation speech being made by W. T. Hamilton.

Mr. Hughes responded in a few appropriate remarks expressing his surprise and gratitude to the society for its handsome present. This was followed by a [illegible] solo, "Tell Her I Love Her So" ([illegible] Foye), D. R. Coldwell; recitation, "The Book Agent," by Miss Mattie Morse; piano solo, "The Rounds" (Webber), by Miss Flora Kendall; basso solo, "The Sentinel Am I" (M. Watson), W. T. Hamilton; soprano solo, "Call Me Back" (L. Denza), Miss Nellie Morse. Then came refreshments prepared by the ladies of the society. ELECTRICITY IN THE HOUSEHOLD. By A. E. Kennelly, Edison's Chief Electrician. Illustrated.
SHORT STORIES: "THE TODDVILLE RAFFLE," by E. M. Bacon, and "THE LOST PLANT," by John Peerson.
POEMS by H. C. Bunner, Edith M. Thomas, Graham R. Tomson.
"THE POINT OF VIEW" Department.

The list of contents for 1890 is by far the strongest announced and includes a great variety of topics of popular interest. The following are some of the features:

AFRICAN EXPLORATION AND TRAVEL will be treated from several points of view. MR. HERBERT WARD, who spent five years on the Congo, will write of that now famous region. Other articles in the same field will appear, and several by well-known artist travelers. All richly illustrated.

LIFE ON A MODERN WAR SHIP. MR. R. F. ZOGBAUM, the artist and writer, has received permission to accompany the new naval Squadron of Evolution on its cruise; and thus to make the first possible studies of the life at sea of officers and men under the altogether novel conditions of the New Navy. The articles embodying these studies, with his own illustrations, will appear through Scribner's Magazine.

HOMES IN CITY, SUBURBS, AND COUNTRY. The city home will be discussed by CHARLES F. McKIM, the eminent architect; the country and suburban homes will be treated by writers of equal authority. Also an illustrated paper describing how houses have been built by people of small means through Building and Loan Associations.

THE CITIZEN'S RIGHTS. A series of articles upon a great class of rights and privileges for which the citizen pays his taxes, but of which the long-suffering American allows himself to be deprived. Thus will be covered the rights of the Citizen as a householder, as a traveler, as a user of the public streets, his rights to his own property, to his own reputation, etc. They will be contributed by writers who will speak with authority, among them will be Ex-Mayor SETH LOW, E. L. GODKIN, FRANCIS LYNDE STETSON, F. W. WHITRIDGE, and others.

ERICSSON, THE GREAT INVENTOR. There will be two articles, the first in the February number, written under peculiar advantages by MR. WILLIAM C. CHURCH, who, at Captain Ericsson's request, was made his authorized biographer and intrusted with his papers. The illustrations will include much that is of the highest interest and novelty; the original unpublished sketches of the Monitor, etc.

HUNTING ARTICLES. A group of articles on Hunting will appear during the year, numbering perhaps as many as the successful Fishing articles published in 1888, and in similar fresh fields.

SINGLE ARTICLES IN GREAT VARIETY. It is the aim of Scribner's Magazine that its articles shall be of interest in themselves, that they shall be by writers who have something to say, and that variety shall be secured rather than its space shall be too much devoted to single undertakings.

MR. ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON will continue to contribute, to the Magazine during 1890. The names of other important contributors will appear in more specific announcements; and several important projects, of which the beginning at least will fall within the next twelve months, are purposely reserved for description when the arrangements in progress for them shall be further advanced.

Baby one Solid Rash

Ugly, painful, blotched, malicious. No rest by day, no peace by night. Doctors and all remedies failed. Tried Cuticura. Effect marvellous. Saved his life.

Cured by Cuticura

Our oldest child, now six years of age, when an infant six months old was attacked with a virulent, malignant skin disease. All ordinary remedies failing, we called our family physician, who attempted to cure it, but it spread with almost incredible rapidity, until the lower portion of the little fellow's person, from the middle of his back down to his knees, was one solid rash, ugly, painful, blotched, and malicious. We had no rest at night, no peace by day. Finally, we were advised to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES. The effect was simply marvellous. In three or four weeks a complete cure was wrought, leaving the little fellow's person as white and healthy as though he had never been attacked. In my opinion, your valuable remedies saved his life, and to-day he is a strong, healthy child, perfectly well, no repetition of the disease having ever occurred. GEO. B. SMITH, Att'y at Law and Ex-Pros. Att'y, Ashland, O.

Boy Covered with Scabs

My boy, aged nine years, has been troubled all his life with a very bad humor, which appeared all over his body in small red blotches, with a dry white scab on them. Last year he was worse than ever, being covered with scabs from the top of his head to his feet, and continually growing worse, although he had been treated by two physicians. As a last resort, I determined to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and am happy to say they did all that I could wish. Using them according to directions, the humor rapidly disappeared, leaving the skin fair and smooth, and performing a thorough cure. The CUTICURA REMEDIES are all you claim for them. They are worth their weight in gold.

Eight years ago a cancer came on my lower lip. It took off my under lip from one side to the other, and down to my chin. I had it treated by burning, an I got so weak that I did not think that I could stand it much longer. After much suffering I discarded all other treatment, and began taking Swift's Specific, and the cancer soon began to heal, and in a short time it was completely healed and I was entirely well. It is now over three years since I got well, and there has been no sign of any return of the disease. I know it was cancer and I know it was cured alone by S. S. S.

Wonder and Satisfaction

will be your experience when you first try Pearline. You'll wonder at its miraculous cleansing—time—labor-saving properties. Wonder why you had not discovered the truth before. You'll be satisfied that all the good things you have read or heard of Pearline are true—if you've heard bad, you'll be satisfied 'twas false. There's hundreds of uses for Pearline beside the laundry and house-cleaning—for washing dishes, china, glassware, silver, straw hats, felt hats, bead trimmings, marble, bronzes, oil paintings, carpets; in fact, everything in the house, from top to bottom—all that's washable—will be far more satisfactory because of the liberal use of Pearline. It is harmless.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers are offering imitations which they claim to be Pearline, or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—they are not, and besides are dangerous. 152 Pearline is manufactured only by JAMES PYLE, New York.

Mayor Glascock's Latest Veto.

We do not understand Mayor Glascock's attitude on the matter of the dedication of the Twelfth street dam. The road has been used as a public highway for a great many years, and if there are any owners of the land over which it runs who have superior rights in that regard to those of the city they have not been heard from. They will not be heard from, because the city has an unquestioned right of way or easement as Mr. Glascock calls it in legal phrase. If the city is minded to improve its right of way, to put it in such condition that it can be used, no one will dispute its action whether it is called a dedication or something else. As we understand it, Mr. Glascock's nice legal sense is offended by the use of the word "dedication" before acceptance has been perfected, but for all practical purposes the road was accepted long ago and was improved at public cost, although we may for years have been violating the small proprieties of legal definition by so doing.

Mr. Glascock may be technically right. It is possible that the city has been walking for years blindfold on the edge of a legal pitfall while it was putting work and money on this dam, but Mr. Glascock's attitude in relation to the matter and the city is certainly wrong. It is his duty to be an adviser as well as a judge in these matters. It is well enough to hunt laboriously for technical difficulties if he will only take the trouble to point the way out. He has not done so. He has discovered a stumbling block—invisible to the rest of us and of no effect in the past—which in some remote contingency he has not taken pains to explain, might prove an obstacle. It is sufficiently clear that there is some way to overcome or remove that obstacle if it exists, but Mr. Glascock stands off in the dignified attitude of a judge on the supreme bench, and says in effect to the City Council, "Try again. It is none of my business to get you out of your scrapes."

If Mr. Glascock had taken the trouble to explain what possible injury might come to the city beyond a slight disagreement with the law dictionary we would be more willing to accept his veto. If he had shown us the way to unravel the snarl it would be taken more kindly than a learned treatise of the distinction between ownership in fee simple and an easement. No harm has come to the city in the past from acts of ownership done. If such harm is like to come in the future it is Mr. Glascock's duty to say specifically in what it may consist.

In the absence of such specifications we do not think it unfair to assume that Mr. Glascock is simply indulging an unfortunate passion for hairsplitting. We are led to this belief the more because in the previous instance of the electric motor franchise, Mr. Glascock, in order to gratify this passion, refused to give the city the benefit of the legal doubt which still exists on the question there at issue. He knew, as everybody knew, that had he approved the franchise no question would ever be raised on the legality of the ordinance, even if the doubt in the case should be solved adversely to the city and the charter. His veto was overridden and the road will be built without question, even if the Supreme Court should hold the State law superior to the charter. Nevertheless, knowing all this, Mr. Glascock stood in the way, so far as in him lay, of an important public improvement, because of the magnitude which a technicality assumes in his eyes. We would not willingly or wittingly do him injustice, but it does seem that in the present instance he is again magnifying a technicality which can have no possible effect. We need not expatiate on the injury to the city due to his action or the disgraceful condition of the roadway covered by the ordinance which he has vetoed. As it now stands it is a bog and not a road.

JUSTICE PATERSON of the Supreme Court raises a very curious question in his decision in the Spencer habeas corpus case, filed this week. He does not think that a man can be made to pay alimony from his earnings after divorce, and does not determine how far it is chargeable on property separate or community acquired before divorce and apportioned to the man at the time of the separation.

Wholly Unjustifiable.

We believe that everybody in Oakland is in favor of cable roads, and as many of them as possible, and for that reason people are willing to put up with a great deal of temporary inconvenience without murmuring. For instance, we have heard no objection because of the very bad condition in which Eighth street, between Washington and Clay, has been left during the winter months, because the delay in the work was possibly due to a misconception of the law or the rights of the franchisees in relation to street grades. At the same time there is no reason why this tolerant spirit should be abused by wholly unnecessary injury and obstruction of the public highways, as is undoubtedly the case with the trench dug by the Fourteenth street company on Sixteenth, between Pine and Wood. That trench was dug with no intention of prosecuting the work through the winter. It was dug early enough to allow of the completion of that part of the work before the rains and the restoration of the street to a proper condition for travel. It was openly charged at the time this work was begun that its object was not the steady prosecution of the work, but merely to occupy the ground before a rival company. We cannot, of course, say how true this may be, but the subsequent proceedings or lack of proceedings give color to the report. If that was the object, it was simply a disreputable piece of sharp practice to cause needless injury and inconvenience to the people of that neighborhood, merely for the purpose of gaining a point which so far as anyone knows was not in dispute. It is one of those cases of a very annoying injury for which there is no practical remedy, but it furnishes a fair measure of the disposition of the men who imposed it on the neighborhood in question. It may serve to throw some light on the assumption by the same men of the right to raise the grade of Eighth street some eighteen inches. People who have so little regard for the rights of the community which gave them a valuable franchise will bear watching.

Will be Shot in the Gloaming or Elsewhere.

Prineville (Oregon) News.

Stealing chickens, turkeys and the like, borrowing wood under cover of darkness, milking other people's cows in the gloaming or elsewhere, as the case may be, is not according to law, but is simply a local custom. Now one of these times some innovator desiring a change will give a broken dose of snipe-shot to the nocturnal prowler who thinks the above custom a cute way of living without labor.

CALIFORNIA COLLEGE.

Closing Exercises of a Noted Baptist Institution.

The closing exercises of the California Baptist College, at Highland Park, were held in the chapel of the school building Thursday evening. There were no graduates this term, but an interesting programme was rendered by the members of the different classes. Despite the soaking rain and the muddy streets the hall was full. Following is the programme:

Duo, two pianos, by Misses Morse and Clark; oration, "Opportunity for Work," by E. Hatch; vocal solo by Miss Nellie Shearman; recitation, "The Three Bells," by Miss Emma Biggs; piano solo by Miss Irene Hill; French recitation by Miss Irene Brotherton; recitation, "Jamie Butler and the Owl," by Miss Emma Claypool; grand march, "Wallenkemp," (Eight Hands), by the Misses Brougher, Wallace, McMullen, and Simmons; recitation, "The Revenge" (Tennyson), by James Brougher; piano solo (in two parts) by Miss Smallman; dialogue, "The Weathercock," Messrs. Brougher and Hatch; vocal solo by Miss Mary Calvert; recitation, "The Spinning Wheel Song," by Miss Brinkerhoff.

The exercises were all well rendered, but the recitations of Jimmy Brougher and of Miss Claypool deserve especial mention. These exercises were the closing of a very successful term of school, and the students have gone to their various homes to enjoy the holiday vacation, after which they will return for the opening on January 9, 1890.

CAPTAIN JOHN M. FREEMAN

Suffocated by Gas in the Hold of the Durham.

John H. Freeman, brother of Captain G. M. Freeman of this city, met with a sad and unusual death in San Francisco, yesterday. In company with Fred R. Catton and A. J. Gove he descended into the hold of the ship Durham, which was partially burned at Port Costa recently, for the purpose of surveying the cargo. The gases from burning wheat are deadly in their effects and they were all confined to the hold. As soon as Freeman and Catton reached the hold they fell and Gove had barely strength to reach the hatchway. Eugene M. Steele gallantly rescued the bodies but life was extinct.

J. M. Freeman came to this coast early in the sixties and was a captain in the Pacific Mail service. For fifteen years he was inspector of Hull and he was Lloyd's surveyor at the time of his death.

GOOD WORK

Done by the Carpenter Class at the Lincoln School.

Some very creditable work is on exhibition at the carpenter shop attached to the Lincoln school which has been done by the pupils of the A Eighth Grade during the past six months. Each of the boys in the class has made a stepladder and although but twelve or thirteen years of age, their work will compare favorably with that of a skilled mechanic. The step ladders will be used in the different schools in Oakland. Not only have the scholars of the class been taught how to make the different articles but they are also taught about the best kinds of lumber to be used, the advantages of hard and soft woods, where they came from, the modes of transportation, etc. Mechanical drawing is also taught in connection with the mechanical work.

The pupils of the class who have made the different things on exhibition are: A. Walcott, Dan Belden, H. Lafevre, E. Schaller, Walter Hanson, E. Pratland, W. Drayton, G. Gunn, V. Dimmick, E. Schaller, A. Gibbs, J. Warner, W. Smith, D. Pratt, J. Heimbold, A. Murray.

NEW ST. MARY'S.

Close of the First Term in Its Oakland Home.

The Exercises and Examinations—Brother Cianan and His Corps of Instructors.

The closing examinations and literary exercises of St. Mary's College commenced on Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock, and continued until this afternoon.

The literary and musical exercises are excellent, and the students' replies to the questions in the examination show that they are receiving their education under the very best of teachers. The preparatory classes were examined on Monday, the collegiate on Tuesday, business department on Wednesday, second collegiate or class of '91 on Thursday, and first collegiate or class of '89 on Friday. The boys will disperse to their different homes on to-day in the best of spirits, well pleased with their term's work. They will return on January 2d to resume their studies, and it is expected to have a large number of students, as a great many applications have been made. During the week the following exercises have been had:

Second Commercial Class, Monday, December 16th, 1:30 P. M.—Music, College Orchestra; Christian doctrine; recitation, "The Incorruptible Patriot," James F. Agnew; geography and grammar; violin solo, John A. Grennan; history; recitation, "Little Hero," Raymond Whitaker; arithmetic and bookkeeping; vocal solo, John A. This excellent college is now under the able management of Brother Cianan, who was at the head of the old St. Mary's College as early as 1869. He afterward took charge of the Sacred College of San Francisco, with over 700 boys under his charge. From the Sacred Heart College he was placed in charge of St. Joseph's Academy, a select boarding school for small boys, where he remained for several years, when his services were wanted in Sacramento, to which place he went, and took the Brothers' school there, where he remained till shortly after the opening of the new St. Mary's, when he resigned his position and came to take the leadership of it. All these schools have been raised to the very highest standard of excellence by his efforts, and it is believed that St. Mary's College under his direction will even surpass his former schools, as he has a corps of twenty most able teachers. This is the closing of their first term's work, and they have already a large attendance. Brother Cianan is a most genial man, and in all his experience as a teacher has always been much beloved by all his students and teachers under him. Two of his old students, Brother Alexander and Brother Walter, are now teaching in this school. Brother Cianan is a gentleman that is well and favorably known by both the clergy and laity of the coast. Over twenty years ago he engaged the services of Professor Schorcht as musical director. This gentleman has been connected with the Christian Brothers' schools in that capacity in all of that time, and is very much attached to them. The rapid improvement in the scholars under his instructions is something wonderful and shows the ability of the gentleman in that line. The following corps of teachers is now engaged in the school: Brother Bettlein, president; Brother Cianan, director; Brother Alexander, sub-director, professor of higher mathematics and natural science; Brother James, secretary; Brother Walter, professor of mental and moral philosophy and composition; Brother Agnon, professor of mathematics, logic, and elocution; Brother Peter, professor of rhetoric, literature, and poetry; Brother Joseph, professor of Latin and Greek; Brother Bertrand, professor of modern languages; Brother Florinus, professor of natural philosophy and chemistry; Brother Urban, professor of history and composition; Brother Lascian, director of business department, and professor of commercial law; Brother Hyacinth, professor of phonography and typewriting; Brother Willibald, professor of bookkeeping and telegraphy; Brother Hilary, prefect of studies; William J. McCormick, teacher of elocution and composition; F. S. Shorcht, professor of music; G. Proesch, professor of drawing and painting.

NEAL'S RESIGNATION.

Ex-Senator Fair Appoints Louis C. Bresse to Succeed Him.

Ex-Senator James G. Fair has finally accepted the resignation of C. S. Neal of Alameda as his private secretary and has appointed Louis C. Bresse to that position. Mr. Neal's resignation grew out of statements made by Mr. Angus, Senator Fair's expert, on the witness stand in the Clark burglary examination to the effect that Senator Fair believed Neal to be dishonest. Mr. Neal demanded a retraction which was not given, and Neal resigned. The salary attached to the office is $6000 a year. The new appointee is well known in commercial circles, having for the past fifteen years been the confidential clerk of L. W. McGlauflin, a grain broker and member of the Produce Exchange.

Something for the New Year.

The world renowned success of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and their continued popularity for over a third of a century as a stomachic, is scarcely more wonderful than the welcome that greets the annual appearance of Hostetter's Almanac. This valuable medical treatise is published by The Hostetter Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., under their own immediate supervision, employing 60 hands in that department. They are running about 11 months in the year on this work, and the issue of same for 1890 will not be less than ten millions, printed in the English, German, French, Welsh, Norwegian, Swedish, Holland, Bohemian and Spanish languages. Refer to a copy of it for valuable and interesting reading concerning health, and numerous testimonials as to the efficacy of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, amusement, varied information, astronomical calculations and chronological items, &c., which can be depended on for correctness. The Almanac for 1890 can be obtained free of cost, from druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the country.

AMONG the incidents of childhood that stand out in bold relief, as our memory reverts to the days when we were young, none are more prominent than severe sickness. The young mother vividly remembers that it was Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured her of croup, and in turn administers it to her own offspring and always with the best success.

A MINNEAPOLIS Building and Loan Association which employs 2500 men and women and has deposited in two years over a million and a half dollars of realty mortgages with the State Auditor, and has never been obliged to foreclose a mortgage, with 235,000 shares in actual force, has made a profit of over 21 per cent. per annum, while its funds have been loaned at 6 per cent, has aroused the jealousy of many of its rivals. The best gauge of merit is success, and the "American" is surely enjoying it. Their office in this city in at 468 Ninth street.

Found at Last! A remedy that not only relieves, but cures that enemy of mankind, consumption, as well as the numerous satellites which revolve around it in the shape of coughs, colds, bronchitis, sore throat, influenza, &c. The remedy we allude to is DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY.

WHY COUGH,

WHEN a few doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will relieve you? Try it. Keep it in the house. You are liable to have a cough at any time, and no other remedy is so effective as this world renowned preparation. No household with young children should be without it. Scores of lives are saved every year by its timely use.

Amanda B. Jenner, Northampton, Mass., writes: "Common gratitude impels me to acknowledge the great benefits I have derived for my children from the use of Ayer's most excellent Cherry Pectoral. I had lost two dear children from croup and consumption, and had the greatest fear of losing my only remaining daughter and son, as they were delicate. Happily, I find that by giving them Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, on the first symptoms of throat or lung trouble, they are relieved from danger, and are becoming robust, healthy children."

"In the winter of 1885 I took a bad cold which, in spite of every known remedy, grew worse, so that the family physician considered me incurable, supposing me to be in consumption. As a last resort I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and, in a short time, the cure was complete. Since then I have never been without this medicine. I am fifty years of age, weigh over 180 pounds, and attribute my good health to the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral."—G. W. Youker, Salem, N. J.

"Last winter I contracted a severe cold, which by repeated exposure, became quite obstinate. I was much troubled with hoarseness and bronchial irritation. After trying various medicines, without relief, I at last purchased a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. On taking this medicine, my cough ceased almost immediately, and I have been well ever since."—Rev. Thos. B. Russell, Secretary Holston Conference and P. E. of the Greenville District, M. E. C., Jonesboro, Tenn.

GETTING CIVILIZED.

The Seminoles and the Kickapoos in Politics.

OKLAHOMA CITY, I. T., December 21.—The cause of the apprehended riot feared last night was the renewal of the old trouble between the Seminole and the Kickapoo factions. The latter have been indulging in threats to lynch some of the Seminole leaders, and to burn the buildings occupied by the Gazette, the organ of the Seminole party. The Mayor belongs to the Kickapoo faction, and the Seminoles, who are in the majority in the Council, will not let him appoint policemen. The Seminoles want to hold an election for two vacancies in the Council, but the Kickapoos oppose it, because it will increase the Seminole majority. United States Marshal Walker apprehends trouble, but not before the election.

Alderman Fuller of Scranton Finds the Warrant Defective.

SCRANTON, Pa., December 21.—Constable Washabaugh of Westmoreland county arrived here this morning with a warrant for the arrest of General Master Workman Powderly. He requested Alderman Fuller to indorse the warrant so that the arrest could be made at once. Upon examining the warrant the Alderman found that it contained no specific allegation, making the general charge of conspiracy, omitting to allege any specific crime. The warrant will be held defective and refused endorsement.

MR. BREARTY WAS DRUNK.

A Slight Reminder of His Condition by Judge Greene.

Attorney Frank J. Brearty appeared before Judge Greene this afternoon to argue a case. He had not said many words when his Honor suggested that he was not in a fit condition to address the court. Mr. Brearty continued in his harangue, when he was brought up with a round turn. Judge Greene remarked that he disliked to say so, but was compelled to suggest that Mr. Brearty was intoxicated.

"Then I may withdraw from the case," said the attorney.

"You have the permission of the court," replied his Honor.

Mr. Brearty then left the courtroom.

The Widow's Cork Leg.

Chicago Herald.

In one of Chicago's public institutions is a bright-eyed, witty Irish widow who loves a joke as only the people from her country do. In the same institution is a stolid German professor who rather admires the pretty widow. The two often meet and indulge in pleasant chats. The German professor is married and is the lord and master of a happy family. The other day he chanced to meet the Irish widow and they entered into conversation, in the course of which the witty widow borrowed the professor's ear and said: "Professor, I don't moind telling you, as you're a married man, but I have a cork leg." The professor was surprised. He said he never would have thought it, as he had never noticed any limp. "No," said the widow; "and I can dance with the best of them." The professor marvelled greatly and said he did not see how she could so successfully disguise it. "Well," she said, "I'll tell you, professur. I have a cork leg because I was born in Cork."

The Oolong Wave.

Philadelphia Times.

The Oolong wave, better known as the afternoon tea, seems likely to result in a cyclone. Cards are flying out for teas in every direction, and the merits of Caravan tea made in a Russian samovar, of English breakfast made in a Satsuma teapot, or of Orange Pekoe made in a silver ball, agitate the feminine mind. With Russian tea a liqueur glass of sherry or rum may be put it and is supposed to add to its excellence. For my own part, I am old fashioned enough to want tea with sugar and cream, and to like it out of a broad, low cup. I find that I am not alone in my tastes, so that the conservative party is growing. Very thin sandwiches spread with anchovy paste or very thin chocolate wafers that fairly melt in one's mouth are offered with tea. Men who drop in are apt to choose in preference to either of these a slice of bread buttered on the loaf and having a little raspberry or strawberry jam spread upon it. As lady is in Saxon loaf-giver, it seems appropriate for her to serve bread in this fashion, and a woman who can stand and dispense it from the loaf gracefully is the possessor of a charm that is absolutely unequalled. Serving tea sinks into insignificance beside it.

NOT CABS THIS TIME.

But Refrigerators on the Gurney Patents.

The Gurney Refrigerating Company of 110 California street, San Francisco, operating under the patents of J. Theodore Gurney of Boston, has organized for the purpose of carrying on a general Refrigerating business. The Gurney refrigerators and cooling rooms are constructed on entirely new principles, which insures perfect ventilation and carries off the gasses generated by decomposition from animal or vegetable matter. The Gurney refrigerators have been proven the best by scientific tests and are made for cars, cold storage warehouses, houses, restaurants, or for any place where a perfect refrigerator required. The company has secured the best expert and scientific talent of the country and the refrigerators are made of the very best materials to be had. The Gurney patent has been found to be the only one that is suited to the California climate and in fact the only refrigerator in its true sense which keeps meats or liquids cool and preserves them for any length of time in their natural state. The refrigerators come in all sizes, and further information may be had of John J. Meyers, general manager of the company, at 109 California street.

The Oakland Bank of Savings.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Oakland Bank of Savings will be held at the office of the corporation, corner Twelfth and Broadway, Oakland, Monday, January 13th, 1890, at 2 P. M.

E. C. SESSIONS,
President.

The proprietors of Ely's Cream Balm do not claim it to be a cure-all, but a sure remedy for catarrh, colds in the head and hay fever. It is not a liquid or snuff, but is easily applied into the nostrils. It gives relief at once.

SANTA CLAUS will visit Jones' Bazar on Saturday, between 2 and 4 P. M. Small folks invited.

The Salt Water Pumping Plant.

EDITOR TRIBUNE: I have a suggestion to make in regard to the proposed plant which may be worthy of consideration.

By a proper adaptation of the works and a moderate increase in the outlay, water could be furnished for power and a sufficient revenue obtained in this way without doubt to pay all operating expenses.

There is already a great demand for power for all classes of light running machinery. With the means of supplying it at reasonable rates, this demand would greatly increase and be the means of stimulating many industries. This plan of supplying power has already been adopted on a large scale in several cities, and it is believed that it will soon come into very general use throughout the country.

A company in London has a very extensive plant of this character for power alone, with some thirty miles of street mains. Similar works are also in operation in the city of Melbourne on an extensive scale, and another is in course of construction in the city of Sydney, Australia. The enterprises mentioned have all proved a financial success in locations where the conditions are not more favorable than here.

Our California Pelton wheel has been adopted by them to utilize the power so obtained, and has proved admirably adapted to the purpose. Instead of a reservoir as proposed, pumping into the mains direct will save large expenditure in the construction of a reservoir and pipe lines to and from the same, which would necessarily be of some considerable length to secure sufficient elevation to give proper head. Security against accident could be afforded by having a duplicate pump for a relay.

CALIFORNIA WATCH CLUB,
1105 Washington street, Oakland.

They Stole For Cause.

A dispatch says that beside the nine men arrested in the Chickasaw Nation on Wednesday for robbing the Santa Fe train at Berwyn on the Monday before, the wife of one of the men was arrested. In her trunk at the hotel two large packages of jewelry, taken from the express cars were found, which she was going to convert into money to spend in those wonderful bargains at Henry Scheihaas's store in this city, where the finest furniture in the world is kept for sale.

CANDIES and tree ornaments for Sunday schools etc., at reduced rates at Brookes', 1205 Broadway. Leave your orders at once.

Christmas Display.

The Oakland merchants have taken considerable trouble to decorate their stores and show windows for the holiday season, and it is astonishing how handsome they look. On every side is to be seen stocks of goods of all kinds and styles imaginable put on display in the most attractive manner, to tempt those who contemplate making some one happy by giving them a Christmas present.

It takes considerable skill and taste to decorate a window for the holiday season, and in some of the larger cities or the Eastern States men are especially employed in this kind of work who command large salaries and who do nothing but trimming windows and decorating stores. We believe there are not many professional window trimmers in this State, but the work on some of them is certainly very good and shows good taste. This is especially so in the store and show windows of J. S. Gilmore & Co.'s, large dry goods establishment at the corner of Thirteenth and Washington streets, where there is an immense disply of Christmas goods arrayed and displayed in a most tempting manner, causing many of the admirers to wish for a longer purse, that they might indulge more extravagantly. This stock of Christmas goods seems to be illimitable, and purchasers of goods will find that a visit to this store will repay them for the trouble. Their store is illuminated by three large electric lights and several small incandescent electric lamps, and makes a brilliant spectacle in the evening.

A Good Resolution.

This is about the time of the year when the young man about town makes his good resolutions for the coming year. Not to drink and not to smoke are chestnuts with hoary beards, but one good resolution which he will stick to will be that after the first of January next he will never patronize any other tailor but Joe Lancaster, at the corner of Tenth and Washington streets, who makes the most famous clothes in the world.

A Book of Photographs.

Before the Cannon bond ordinance goes into effect another one will be introduced providing for the making of a large photographic album of the city as it is at present before the improvements are commenced. The mudflats of Lake Merritt and the noisome West Oakland marsh will all be taken for future reference. Of course Ormsby, at 1055 Broadway, will make the pictures. He is Oaklands best photographer.

He Once Lived Here.

The discharged soldier who committed suicide near the Benicia barracks, on Thursday last, was at one time a resident of this city, but despondency caused him to wander away and finally he enlisted in the army. He became very despondent after living here for several years by discovering that he missed great bargains by not buying his meat at A. C. Reed's meat market at the corner of Seventeenth and Telegraph avenue. This is the best place in the city to buy turkeys or meat for the holidays, and customers may be always sure of prompt attention and the very finest meats the market affords.

Encyclopædias Given Away.

The popular dry goods firm of J. S. Gilmore & Co., Thirteenth and Washington streets, are out with a very liberal offer to their patrons. They have purchased 500 copies of "Bradbury's Encyclopædia of Practical Information," which they propose to distribute among their patrons in the following manner: Every purchaser will be given a ticket and the amount of their purchase each time will be punched on it, and when the entire ticket is used they will present the holder with a copy of the encyclopædia, which is a large book of almost 800 pages, nicely bound, and is a very useful, as well as ornamental, article.

ATTENTION! If you desire a fine head of hair of a natural hue and free from dandruff, Hall's Hair Renewer is the best and safest preparation to accomplish it.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.

Anybody holding tickets on horse cart, and harness "DWYER," which was to take place on the November drawing of the Louisiana lottery, are notified that it has been withdrawn. Those holding tickets can have their money refunded by presenting them to H. White, 411 Eleventh street.

SILVER bon bonnieres candy boxes from 40c upwards, a suitable holiday present for a young lady. Lehmbeck's, Fourteenth street, next to Postoffice.

HOLIDAY CANDIES.

A Revolution in the Art of Candy Making.

When E. Lehmbeck commenced his candy business over two years ago, he inaugurated a new era in the candy business in Oakland. Purity and excellence have become synonimous terms for his delicious confections. As usual during the coming Christmas holidays he will have the largest stock of candy baskets, bon bonnieres, Christmas tree ornaments, etc., and his stock of candies will be the finest and freshest in the city.

JACK THE RIPPER.

Another Supposed Murder Bordering Upon the Selvage Edge of White Chapel.

A heavy trunk was to have been moved from 263 Eighth street yesterday, and when the Express Company called for it they noticed a terrible obnoxious smell. Their curiosity was at once aroused, and the driver suggested opening the trunk. "Yeast vons look a little oudt," was heard from the owner. "Dot vas mine Limberger cheese dot youse smell, undt I vant mine frunk checked to Germany." "We check baggage to all parts of the United States," replied the driver of the Whitney Standard & Oakland Transfer Company. Their office is 422 Ninth street.

MY HEADACHE IS CURED.

That's What D. Hyman of 1063 Broadway Says.

For years I have suffered with sick headache, gastric acidity of stomach with great distress after eating, and constipation. I doctored and did all that time and no relief. Some three months ago I began treatment with Dr. Bluett of 1063 Broadway, Oakland. From the first week's treatment I have no more headache or distress and am enjoying splendid health. D. HYMAN, with Salinger Brothers, 1063 Broadway.

Christmas Presents.

Christmas comes but once a year, and yet many people are puzzled what to buy their husband, wife or friend for a Christmas present. It is better to purchase something useful, and what is more useful than a good watch that will keep good time? For instance one of John Frey's elegant watches would make a lovely present; he has a large stock, both of ladies' and gents' watches, valuable diamonds and a complete line of jewelry purchased especially for the holidays. Remember the number, 1708 Seventh street.

Notice of Application for Street Railroad Franchise.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, As caused to be done by the Council of the City of Oakland by its resolution number 1450, adopted Dec. 19, 1889, that the Brooklyn and Fruit Vale Railroad Company has made application to said Council for a street railroad franchise in said City of Oakland, Alameda County, State of California, over and along the routes specified and described as follows, to wit:

First—Beginning at the point of intersection of the centre line of Thirteenth avenue with the centre line of East Eleventh street; running thence easterly along East Eleventh street to a point in front of the lot seventy-five (75) feet by one hundred and fifty (150) feet owned and occupied by the Brooklyn and Fruit Vale Railroad Company; thence in a northerly direction by the most practicable curves and tangents through and across block number thirty-nine, Clinton, according to Higley's map thereof, of record in the County Recorder's office of said Alameda County, (said Clinton being now a part of the City of Oakland); then crossing East Twelfth street and through and over block B, in said Clinton, as shown by said map, to a point in the northern line of East Fourteenth street, distant thereon easterly two hundred and eighty-four (284) feet, more or less, from the southwestern line of Thirteenth avenue; thence northeasterly crossing all intervening streets, alleyways, thoroughfares and public highways, and upon a line parallel with said Thirteenth avenue to the northern line of East Twenty-second street and southern end of the strip of land conveyed by J. V. Webster and others to the Brooklyn and Fruit Vale Railroad Company by deed dated June 1st, 1875, and recorded in Liber 118 of Deeds, at page 206, of the records of said Alameda County; thence northeasterly on and along said strip of land and upon, over and across all intervening streets, thoroughfares, alleys and public highways by the most practicable curves and tangents to a place on said strip between Grant street and Clinton street; thence easterly across Fourteenth avenue and Clinton street by the most feasible curves and tangents to a point in the eastern boundary line of the Town of Lynn, formerly so called, now a part of the City of Oakland, distant thereon one hundred (100) feet, more or less, southerly from the southern line of the County Road Survey number eleven hundred and thirty-five (1135); thence easterly by the most practicable curves, tangents and route to a point therein one hundred and sixty (160) feet, more or less, easterly from the northerly projection of the eastern line of Benina Park Tract; thence southerly, easterly and northerly by the most practicable curves, tangents and route to the eastern boundary of the City of Oakland at its intersection with the said County Road at or near the bridge at that place, and along and upon the route in said city particularly described as follows, to wit:

Second—Commencing at the point of intersection of the center line of Thirteenth avenue with the center line of East Eleventh street, and running thence northeasterly along the center line of Thirteenth avenue to the center line of East Twenty-second street; thence easterly by the most practicable curves and tangents over and across block number one hundred and forty (140), as the same is delineated and so designated upon said Higley's Map of the Town of Clinton, to a point on or near the southern line of East Twenty-third street, at or near its intersection at that place with the strip of land above referred to as having been conveyed by J. V. Webster and others to The Brooklyn and Fruit Vale Railroad Company by deed dated June 1st, 1875 and recorded in Liber 118 of Deeds at page 206, of the records of Alameda County.

And that an offer is hereby made for said City Council to grant the franchise to the persons, company or corporation that shall agree to pay at the expiration of five years after said railroad is completed, and thereafter semi-annually, the largest per centum of the gross receipts of such road according to a verified statement of the same.

Said Council reserves the right to reject any and all bids and may refuse to grant a franchise for the proposed routes, and in case no bids are made, may in its discretion grant a franchise for such period as may be deemed most expedient.

It is sought under said application to obtain the right in said franchise to operate upon such routes street cars, propelled by horses or mules—the term of which franchise is to be twenty-five years.

By order of the Council of the City of Oakland.

Oakland, Dec. 19, 1889.

ABOUT CALIFORNIA DRIED FRUITS.

A Horticultural Society Discussion—Money in Figs—The Camphor Tree—Turkeys.

THE CAMPHOR TREE.

"This leads me to speak to you of one of the most beautiful as well as useful trees, the 'Laurus camphora,' or camphor tree. It is easily grown from seed, which has to be sown shortly after maturing, as the essential oil in the seed soon becomes rancid and kills the power of germation. Sown fresh the young sprouts come up in from five to six weeks. Its growth is very near as rapid as that of the encalyptus, whose properties it shares also, it being claimed to keep away or counteract malarial influences through its pungent exhalations. In districts in Japan where this tree is planted largely malaria is unknown. It attains a hight of thirty to forty feet, and as has been proven by our own experience during the severe frosts of February, 1888, is harder than the encalyptus, which froze to the ground, while the camphor tree withstood it. The wood is valuable. Trunks or boxes of camphor wood are known as a preventive from the attacks of insects on fur or woolen clothing. The medicinal properties are too well known to need any mention. Who has not at one or other time in their lives taken refuge to spirits of camphor to assuage some pain? We now import annually thousands of dollars worth of this commodity. Why not have the home produced article?"—H. H. Berger.

MONEY IN FIGS.

Fig trees cannot be grown successfully in any State in the Union except California and within a very limited area in Arizona. This naturally tends to make them high priced. Figs grow vigorously in nearly all portions of the State, but especially so in the thermal belts of the interior valleys. Yet most of the figs consumed in the United States are grown in Europe. The fact that superior figs can be grown in California has been abundantly demonstrated. The principal difficulty seems to be that no intelligent attempt to pack them on a large scale has ever been made. A great many fig trees have been planted in Fresno county, most of them being of the best varieties. Any variety can be sold, however, and at a good price, if they are properly prepared. There is no good reason why the fig industry should not become even more prominent than the raisin industry. The trees must receive better care, however, and our fruit packers must be prepared to handle figs. This fruit can be put on the market in various ways—green, dried, preserved, spiced or glaced.—Fresno Republican.

PRUNES.

E. S. Palmer, in his three acres of orchard, has twenty prune trees that are six years old. From the lowest to the very topmost limb the prunes hang in great clusters, and when the limb is near enough to the ground, it is lying there for support. A few small limbs are broken by the weight of fruit, but generally the limb holds well without breaking. It is estimated by conservative judges that these twenty trees will average more than 700 pounds of green fruit to the tree, while some of them certainly bear the weight of more than 1000 pounds. We believe, if the fruit is cured in the best possible manner, that the owner will realize $300 for it. We estimate 14,000 pounds of green fruit or 4650 of dried; at the least price the same sold for last season, eight cents per pound, will be $372 for less than one-fifth of an acre.—Anderson Enterprise.

TURKEYS FROM THE EAST.

"I see," said a farmer the other day, "that turkeys are even at this time of the year brought to this coast from the East and sold at a profit, after freights are paid. I don't think this reflects much credit on our foothill people, some of them whom wonder what they can do with their lands."—Marysville Appeal.

LAWNS AND LAWN MOWERS.

A large proportion of the lawns in city, village, and country are deteriorating, and close examination shows the turf to be thin, the desirable grasses to be weak, browning quickly under drought and hot sun, while coarse, unsightly plants creep in and retain a foothold. The beauty of the lawn diminishes with age in spite of liberal fertilizing and close and regular cutting. What is the reason? Mainly it is the excessive use of the modern lawn mower. In nearly every locality may be found pasture lands long set with grasses fine and rich, holding color well under midsummer sun and drought, with a thick, elastic turf, through which no color of soil can be seen—the very perfection of a lawn if it were trimmed close and even. Why does the pasture flourish through a score of years and the lawn decay? Simply because the pasture is kept nearly under natural conditions and the lawn is subjected to an intense Chinese dwarfage system. Suppose the lawn is newly made, according to the best instructions, the soil deeply dug, enriched and made clean and fine, the seed sown and the grass plants show thick and strong. What next? The lawn mower—twice or three times a week until growth stops in autumn. Next spring the grass makes a renewed struggle for existence, starts early and strong again. It lifts its blades to the sun and air that it may push its roots into the rich soil for moisture and sustenance. The effort is promptly met by the lawn mower. Growth is checked above and under ground; so through an entire season and succeeding years. The law is that the root growth of the plant is in proportion to its top growth; the root growth is shallow. Of what avail is the deep, rich soil? Is it a wonder that the lawn browns early and that coarse, hardy plants get a foothold?

Give the grass plant a chance to make adequate root growth if you would have and keep a good lawn. Read the lesson of the pasture lands. Encourage a little in early spring and in the autumn lay the lawn mower away early and let a thick, strong growth of grass be the winter protection of the lawn.—American Agriculturist for July.

CALIFORNIA DRIED FRUITS.

At a recent meeting of the State Horticultural Society Leonard Coates of Napa, who has recently returned from a trip to England, told of his observations relative to the market there for California products.

"There is a growing demand," said he, "for prunes and apricots of fine quality. Insipid, flat prunes, packed by the peasantry of Europe, sell for 15 or 16 cents a pound. Prunes can be profitably shipped from California and reach England in time to sell well. Black, natural looking prunes are appreciated, but those highly bleached or sulphured are condemned. Almonds find a ready market there at 8 and 9 cents a pound.

"Australia is already sending her fruits and wines to England in large quantities. California fruits, to succeed abroad, must be introduced as a novelty and not through the old channels of trade. What we send there must be of first class quality, pure, and properly packed. Excessive sulphuring will work disaster to California fruits abroad, and Eastern consumers have already taken alarm at finding too much sulphur in some of our apricots and peaches. The English look more for what pleases the taste than the eye. I would recommend the establishment of an agency in London to handle California fruits exclusively."

Professor Hilgard said the sanitary police of Europe would not permit the sulphuring of fruits as it is carried on in California. He could not understand the singular hallucination of the American people in favoring sulphured, unhealthy fruits.

R. N. Rowley of the committee appointed to investigate the culture of the fig in this State reported that the foothill regions were especially adapted to the growing of the fig and produce the finest quality.

"These uplands," he continued, "are, in our judgment, preferable to the lowlands of the interior valleys for successful fig culture. The fruit should be allowed to thoroughly mature and ripen upon the tree before it is gathered. It may be improved by bleaching, but at present our growers sulphur entirely too long. Six to eight hours in the sulphur box will ruin any fruit, particularly the delicate fig, as it destroys the flavor, bleaches the pulp and flowers of the fruit and renders it tasteless and practically worthless for market.

"The time required to arrest fermentation and prevent oxidization by sulphuring is about ten or thirty minutes, varying as to conditions and circumstances. The fig should be thoroughly sweated in bulk after drying, care being exercised not to dry it too much, but to thoroughly evaporate it, and then it should be dipped in clear, scalding water before parking. This will prevent it from turning sour after being packed. The Smyrna fig in its native home does not produce and mature the true type of fruit until the eighth or tenth year from planting. Why should California growers expect abundance in three or four years?"

Harsh purgative remedies are fast giving way to the gentle action and mild effects of Carter's Little Liver Pills. If you try them, they will certainly please you.

No remedy for blood disorders can equal Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Though concentrated and powerful, the medicine is perfectly safe, and may be taken by children as well as adults. Physicians recommend it in preference to any other. Price $1. Worth $5 a bottle.

Catarrh

Is a constitutional and not a local disease, and therefore it cannot be cured by local applications. It requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, working through the blood, eradicates the impurity which causes and promotes the disease, and effects a permanent cure. Thousand of people testify to the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a remedy for catarrh when other preparations had failed. Hood's Sarsaparilla also builds up the whole system, and makes you feel renewed in health and strength.

Catarrh

"I used Hood's Sarsaparilla for catarrh, and received great relief and benefit from it. The catarrh was very disagreeable, especially in the winter, causing constant discharge from my nose, ringing noises in my ears and pains in the back of my head. The effort to clear my head in the morning by hawking and spitting was painful. Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me relief immediately, while in time I was entirely cured. I am never without Hood's Sarsaparilla in my house as I think it is worth its weight in gold."—Mrs. G. B. Gunn, 1023 Eighth street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Catarrh

THOUGHTFUL SANTA CLAUS.

"I've traveled through the sleet and snow,
Across the country high and low,
To fill the stockings small and great
That here in line my coming wait.
In creeping baby's tiny hose
The india rubber rattle goes;
A handsome doll, with staring eyes,
Will much the little miss surprise;
And what will more delight the boys
Than musket, drum or bugle toys?
And now before I climb the flue,
I'll bear in mind the mother true,
Who works so hard by day and night
To keep the clothing clean and white,
And in her stocking, long and wide,
Some cakes of IVORY SOAP I'll hide."

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

FESTAL

Services to be Held in Oakland Tomorrow.

PRAISE SERVICES IN MANY CHURCHES.

The Subjects of the Sermons of the Various Pastors and the Music of the Praise Services.

Nearly all of the churches will hold some special service to-morrow in honor of Christmas, though Christmas services will be held on Wednesday in addition. Many of the churches will have evening praise services, most particularly the First Congregational, First Methodist Episcopal and First Presbyterian Churches.

The following are the sermons and services for to-morrow:

Services and Sermons.

At the First Congregational Church the pastor, Rev. J. K. McLean, will officiate in the morning and evening. In the morning services appropriate to the season will be held and in the evening the annual Christmas praise service.

At the Second Presbyterian Church on the Sabbath, the pastor, Rev. H. H. Rice, will preach at 11 A. M. Subject: "Christmas Temperance Thoughts." At 7:30 P. M. the Sabbath school will give a Christmas praise service.

Dr. Heacock, the pastor, will preach morning and evening in the Eighth Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church. Sunday school at 12:30. Young People's meeting at 6:30.

At the Asbury M. E. Church, South, the pastor, Rev. R. Boyns, D. D. will preach at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Morning subject: "The Visit of the Dayspring." Evening subject: "The Blessedness of Christianity."

Rev. J. M. Van Every, of the Thirty-fourth Street Methodist Episcopal Church, will take the following subjects tomorrow: Morning, "Birth of Christ." Evening, "Total Abstinence."

"The First and Model Gospel Service" will be the theme of Dr. Horton's discourse, at the First Presbyterian Church, on Sabbath morning, and a full Christmas Service will be given. "Some deeper reasons why the masses stand aloof from the Church," will be the theme at the evening hour. Special attention given on these holiday occasions to the care of strangers. Location, corner Fourteenth and Franklin streets.

At the First Methodist Episcopal Church the services on Sunday will be appropriate to the Christmas season. In the morning the pastor will preach a Christmas sermon; subject, "The Christian Era;" and in addition there will be Christmas music and decorations. In the evening there will be a grand Christmas choral service, at which the following music will be rendered under the direction of D. P. Hughes: Tenor solo and chorus, (a) "Comfort Ye My People. (b) "The Glory of the Lord." Handel; "See Now the Altar," Faure; alto solo, Christmas," Shelley; "For Unto Us a Child is Born," Roberts; "Shepherds of Judea," Greene; soprano solo, "Rejoice Greatly," Handel; quintette, "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing," Warren; "Gloria, Twelfth Mass," Mozart.

Rev. R. M. Stevenson at Prospect Hill Church on Fruit Vale will speak tomorrow morning on "Good Tidings." At the 7 P. M. service his subject will be "We Have Not Followed Cunningly Devised Fables."

The Young Men's Christian Association audience will be addressed at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon by Rev. Mr. Roller of Lorin.

At the West Street Universalist Chapel Rev. S. Goodenough will preach tomorrow morning on "The Attitude of Christ Towards Temperance and Amusements, as Illustrated by the Story of the Marriage at Cana."

At the Welsh Presbyterian Church tomorrow there will be preaching at 11 A. M. by Rev. Moses Williams and at 7:30 P. M. by Rev. R. J. Roberts.

At the Bethany Presbyterian Chapel there will be Sunday school at 3 P. M. and preaching at 7:30 P. M. by Rev. Moses Williams.

At Market Street Congregational Church, Market, near Twenty-second street, special preparations have been made for the observance of Christmas. In the morning the choir, under the direction of Professor Hakes, will sing the following selections: "Wake the Song of Jubilee," Sweeney; "Sing, O Daughter of Zion," Barringer; "Let Us Now Go Even Unto Bethlehem," Barringer. The pastor will preach on "The Shekinah Glory Shining Through the Veil." In the evening there will be a children's service of scripture and song entitled "Our Great Messiah."

At the Free Baptist Church, on Twenty-first street, Christmas Sunday will be observed with appropriate services. Preaching at 11 A. M. by the pastor, Dr. Penney. In the evening a Christmas concert by the children of the Sunday school. Young people's meeting at 6:30.

At the Pilgrim Church, corner Eighth avenue and Fifteenth street, the pastor, Rev. J. B. Silcox, will preach a Christmas sermon in the morning on "The Character of Jesus." In the evening he will repeat the address he gave at "Forefather's" dinner the other evening in San Francisco—"The Relation of the Pilgrim Church to the Social Life of Today." The address deals with socialism, nationalism and kindred themes.

At the First Baptist Church, corner of Fourteenth and Brush streets, C. H. Hobart, the pastor, will preach morning and evening. Morning theme: "California for Christ." In the evening an address will be delivered to young men, with singing appropriate to the occasion. Sunday school at 12:30 o'clock. Young people's meeting at 6:30 o'clock. Strangers are welcome.

Rev. E. C. Oakley will preach both morning and evening tomorrow at the Plymouth Avenue Congregational Church. Morning subject: "Christ Lamenting Over Jerusalem." Evening subject: "Healing of the Leper."

Rev. A. J. Sturtevant will preach at the San Pablo Avenue Baptist Church to-morrow morning and evening. Morning subject, "Distinctive Principles of Baptists;" evening subject, "God's Christmas Gift."

At the Brooklyn Presbyterian Church in East Oakland, the pastor, Rev. E. S. Chapman, D. D., will preach at 11 A. M. The services will be appropriate to Christmas. In the evening Rev. M. L. Berger, of Cleveland, Ohio, will give an account of the McCall mission in Paris. The Christmas exercises of the Sunday school will be on Wednesday evening. The Bible normal class will meet as usual next week on Thursday evening at 7:30 sharp. The lesson will be the fourth lesson of the Normal book.

At the Harrison Street Baptist Church, between Fourth and Fifth streets, preaching at 11:15 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. by the pastor, Rev. W. T. Fleenor. Morning subject, "Mastering Difficulties"; evening, "Narrow Covering." Sunday school at 10 A. M. Young people's meeting at 6:45 P. M. All are invited.

There will be a special Christmas praise service at the Good Will Chapel Sunday evening, beginning promptly at 7:30 P. M. The pastor, Mr. Robbins, will preach.

At the German Methodist Episcopal Church on Seventeenth street, near San Pablo avenue, Rev. A. Lunkan, the pastor, will preach, morning and evening; subject in the morning, "We are Pilgrims," in the evening, "Lay Hold on Eternal Life."

The children of the German Methodist Episcopal Sunday school will have their Christmas tree on Monday evening, the 23d of December, and render a cantata entitled, "Is there a Santa Claus?" Admission free.

Unitarian Church, in Hamilton Hall, a Christmas service for young and old at 11 o'clock. The sermon of Rev. C. W. Wendte will treat of Christmas and its lessons from a humanitarian standpoint. Professor Ernest Werner, organist, and vocal talent from San Francisco, will perform appropriate music. Professor C. H. Tebbs, precentor, will lead the carols of the children of the Sunday School, who will assemble at their rooms in the Temple at 10½ o'clock and proceed to Hamilton Hall in a body. All invited.

L. N. Early will preach to-morrow at the Christian Church, corner Thirteenth and Market, on "Thoughts Appropriate to Christmas" and "Who Will Be Last?" Y. P. S. C. E. will meet at 6:15.

FESTIVAL SERVICES.

Christmas Celebration at the First Presbyterian Church.

Special Christmas services will be held tomorrow morning and evening at the First Presbyterian Church. The pastor, Rev. Francis A. Horton, will officiate and the festival music will be given by a complete choir, conducted by Benjamin Clark, choir master. The quartet will be composed of Miss Carrie Northey, soprano; Mrs. Charles Dickman, contralto; Benjamin Clark, tenor; and Thomas Rickard, bass; assisted by a chorus of forty voices. Miss De Fremery is organist. The following programme of services will be followed:

Northey and choir; notices; sermon, Rev. F. A. Horton, D. D.; offertory, "In Dreams I Heard the Seraphim," (Faure), Mrs. C. Dickman, Thomas Rickard and Choir; prayer by the Pastor; Congregational hymn No. 285 (Dr. Mason); benediction; organ prelude, "Fantasia," (Phillip Fletz.)

ONLY A QUIBBLE,

Of No Consequence Except to the Legal Purists.

The Council Did Not Use the Proper Words in Relation to the Twelfth Street Dam.

"Can you give me some information regarding the Mayor's veto of the Twelfth street dam ordinance?" asked a TRIBUNE reporter of City Attorney Johnson today.

"Yes, I can," replied Mr. Johnson, with some emphasis in his tone. "I think the public has a right to know about these matters, and they expect, when the Mayor vetoes an ordinance, that it has been through my office for inspection as to its legality. That is generally the rule. As to the Twelfth street dam ordinance, however, it was different. I never saw it until it was brought into my office, after having been passed by the Council. At this time Mr. Glascock wanted to consult with me about it. It was in my possession two or three days, and then it was vetoed."

"The cause?"

"The reason for the veto was the improper wording of the ordinance. The words used were 'he and is hereby dedicated' (as a public street or highway). Now, property cannot be 'dedicated,' except by the owners thereof. The city does not own this property, and therefore has no right to dedicate. If the ordinance had said that the dike be 'declared' a public street it would have been all right and perfectly legal."

"What is the remedy?"

"All that will be required will be a new ordinance properly worded, which can be passed at any time. Now I wish to say another thing. Mr. Johnson continued. "Mr. Glascock and myself have never disagreed in regard to any ordinances, either approved or vetoed that have been submitted to me. He has never vetoed an ordinance that had been submitted to me previous to its passage, except in one instance. In that case I attended the committee meeting, and when the ordinance in question was discussed I called the attention of the committee to the defect which, in my judgment, would prove fatal to it. On that occasion I freely criticised the ordinance. The chairman, Mr. Evans, said to the committee that the city attorney objected to it, but that made no difference, as they had a right to pass it anyhow. It was passed over my objections and the Mayor vetoed it on the same ground that I had based my objections. In all other cases ordinances previously submitted to me and passed with my approval have been approved by the Mayor. But the ordinance relating to the Twelfth street dam was kept away from me until after its passage. Then Mr. Glascock and I both decided, after careful deliberation, that it was invalid and unsafe in its present form, and in my opinion he very properly vetoed it."

"Then you do not think there will be any trouble if the dam is declared a public highway by an ordinance properly drawn?"

"None at all. It can be done any time. I believe the Council will attend to the matter without delay. I, for one, would be only too glad too have it legally operated as a thoroughfare and to see it properly improved. At the present time it is in a wretched condition, full of holes and quagmires, into which both men and horses are liable to fall and break their limbs. The heavy rains have almost ruined it as a roadway. So far as the Mayor is concerned, I feel that he is disposed to have it declared a public highway, and to have it properly improved."

JOEL PLAYTER, DECEASED.

Death of a Brother of Ex-Mayor Ely W. Playter.

Joel Playter, brother of Ely W. Playter, ex-Mayor, Commissioner of Public Works, was a resident of Contra Costa county. He was afflicted with an inveterate cancer, and came from his home to Oakland twelve and a half months ago and lived at the house of his brother, 1167 Castro street. He was a widower and was born in Canada, but of the seventy-eight years of his life, sixty-four were spent in this country. Last evening at 7 o'clock he died. The funeral services will be held at half after 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the residence of E. W. Playter.

Broke Loose.

A. Johnson, a deaf man at the Deaf and Dumb asylum in Berkeley, created some little excitement at that place yesterday morning by appearing unheralded in the women's ward of the institution and exhibiting a propensity to embrace every female in that place. The man's presence there was not known to the superintendent for some time, as the ladies were unable to screech or scream, but they scattered in all directions, and Constable Fonzo was sent for to remove the offender. Johnson was taken before Justice Little, who sentenced him to fifteu days in the County Jail on a charge of battery.

To Receive Henry George.

Last evening the Single Tax Club held a meeting at which the matter of tendering a reception to Henry George was discussed. George is expected to leave New York for the Pacific coast about the middle of January. Preparations will be made to have him lecture in this city, and a letter to that effect has been sent him.

ALAMEDA.

A New Industry, a New Church and a New Bank.

Henry Reunell has been employed as night watchman to guard the treasury vault during the collection of city taxes.

The telescopic holder of the gas company at the foot of Union street is about completed. It has a capacity of 150,000 cubic feet, and cost $25,000.

Charles J. Fossing has erected a frame building on Park street, near Pacific avenue, and will shortly go into the business of auctioneer and real estate.

Street Superintendent Campbell will soon present to the City Trustees a full report of all the work done on the streets, sewers and sidewalks the past year.

Conducter Marmin of the broad gauge local is taking a few days rest. He is troubled with an affliction on the face which threatens to result in erysipelas.

The Oakland Gas, Light and Heat Company has been requested by the Alameda Improvement Association to lay its mains the full length of Pacific avenue before the work of grading and macadamizing is commenced.

Three small boys who were found guilty of battery and petty larceny in this city a couple of months ago, and sent to the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society, San Francisco, have made their escape from that institution a second time. Their names are Willie Bradon, H. Foard, and Al Alfvater.

A. V. Clark, superintendent of the Pottery Works at the West End, recently stated that a new industry would be operated in connection with the works the coming year, but declined to state the nature of the new line of operations. It is now said said that the new industry will be the manufacture of glass.

It is expected that the new savings bank will be in operation the early part of next year. A committee consisting of D. L. Randolph, Dell Linderman, Henry Severing, and J. E. Baker has been appointed to take the matter of organization in hand and perfect the details. The business of the new bank will be conducted in the same place as that of the Bank of Alameda.

The congregation of the First German Lutheran Church proposes to erect a $4000 church edifice on Lafayette street, between Central and Santa Clara avenues. Six public spirited citizens have headed a subscription list with $100, and many smaller amounts have been signed for. In addition to this source of funds, the congregation owns a lot on Alameda avenue, near Walnut street, which it is proposed to sell and devote the proceeds to the building fund.

DRAGGED TWO BLOCKS.

A Brave Driver of a Gurney Skates on his Coat Tails.

A Gurney cab to which two horses were harnessed was standing this morning at ten o'clock at the corner of Fourteenth and Franklin streets. No one was inside the cab and the driver was standing in the street, checking up the horses. A fadened lumber wagon passed. Long planks projected beyond the hind axle and flapped together as they swayed gracefully from the jolting springless wagon. The noise started a young horse in the Gurney team and he plunged. His plunging excited his companion and the horses began to run. The driver grasped the reins. The horses would not stop. The driver was thrown in an instant and under the cab. He held tightly to his reins and was dragged flat on his back from Fourteenth to Twelfth street. Men on the sidewalk called to him to let go, but he would not release his grasp on the reins until he had coasted two blocks on his overcoat. Then he let go the lines. The horses turned into Twelfth street, ran past the stable and brought up against a tree. A broken pole was the only damage. The driver, Dorn, by name, who held the horses like a hero, was not injured and is driving a cab this afternoon. Mr. Jackson, manager of the Gurney Cab Company, said that as soon af he heard of the runaway he made arrangements to sell the team. "Those horses might never run away again," said he, "but I can not have a runaway team. Those horses will be sold immediately." Mr. Jackson says that the bystanders who saw the runaway are full of commendation of the bravery of the driver, who risked his life trying to stop the horses.

A Present to Be Appreciated.

A most desirable present to a gentleman on Christmas is a new suit of clothes. It is something which he can use and enjoy to more advantage than anything else. Of course the suit should come from none but a first class tailor, and therefore the attention of the public is called to P. J. O'Connor at 1010 Broadway. His stock of fall and winter goods is the most elaborate in the city and his fashion plates the very latest published. Good suits are made here better than at any other establishment in the city, and O'Connor's prices are the most reasonable to be found either in Oakland or in San Francisco.

Morroccoyich, Etc., Seeks Judge Murphy's Life.

The following unique epistle was delivered to the Clerk of the Supreme Court yesterday by a letter carrier:

To the Hon. State Supreme Court, San Francisco, Cal.—To the Hon. Judges of that Tribunal: I, Moroccovich Endeyrovich Bay, born in the city of Constantinople, Turkey, forty-three years ago.

But now having business in Southern California on a large scale.

I, the named person, have the right, according to the rules of our country, to notify the highest court of that State which I am living.

While on business in San Francisco, California, having had business at the Superior Court of that city, being ill treated by one Judge named Murphy, department 12.

On the other side, while in Los Angeles, California, having experienced imperdinend treatment by one Chief of Police Glass of that same city without cause or reason.

I think this class of individual ought to be dead than they have no right to live according to the law of the city of Sebastopol.

I therefore notify the highest court of the State of affairs regarding Judge Murphy, 12, Superior Court, and Chief of Police of Los Angeles, named Glass.

I have already a couple of individuals who will do the work. M. E.

Riverside (Cal.), December 12, 889.

SWALLOWED THE FERRULE.

A Little Girl's Narrow Escape From Death.

The youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dalley, who reside on Thirteenth avenue, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets, had a narrow escape from a horrible death yesterday. She had been playing in the house with an old umbrella handle. The ferrule to which the ribs of the umbrella had formerly been attached, came off the handle, and the little girl picked it up and tried to swallow it. The ragged edge of the ferrule had become fastened in the windpipe, and when Dr. E. M. Bradley who was called for, arrived, he found that the throat had to be cut in order to get the ferrule out of the child's throat. Several of the neighbors were called in to assist in the operation, and last night the patient was resting easy, and there are no fears of her life being endangered now.

JUBILEE JANE

An Unprincipled Scheme to Send Her to the Insane Asylum to Reap the Benefit of Her Property

Joselyn Crouner had his sister Jane, better known as "Jubilee Jane" on account of her continual singing, arraigned before the committee of examiners this morning in order to have her adjudged insane. The first question she answered properly, which was this: "If you were going away Jane, what would be the first thing you would do?" The ready answer was, "I would telephone for the People's Express and Transfer Co., to check my trunk to New York." They check baggage to all parts of the United States from your residence; besides doing a general express and transfer business. Special care taken in moving furniture, pianos, etc. Call telephone 926, or leave your order at 423 Tenth street, and you will never be examined for insanity.

STATE ANALYSTS REPORT THE ROYAL BAKING POWDER SUPERIOR TO ANY OTHER.

"The Royal Baking Powder fulfills all requirements which the public can make of a baking powder. For purity and care in preparation it equals any in the market, and our test shows that it has greater power than any of which we have any knowledge."

W. B. RISING, Prof. Chemistry University of California, and State Analyst.

"From actual analysis made by me, I pronounce the Royal Baking Powder to be the strongest and purest baking powder before the public."

THE WIFE

Whose Husband is a Drinking Man.

HOW SHE LONGS FOR PROHIBITION.

A Woman's Christian Temperance Union Showing on a Great Evil—To Save the Home.

It seems to me no one in all this fair land of America will look forward with such rejoicing to the glad day of prohibition as the wife of the drinking man. Ah! this vast army of helpless, hopeless, broken-hearted women! How one's very heart aches for them in their crushing sorrow, their terrible despair. Who can tell their woe? Who can measure their misery? Language fails to express the heights and depths of the torture which is their daily life. Words can faintly picture the haggard lines of care and anxiety which every night's agonized waiting makes deeper on their pale faces. Their eyes, sunken, helpless, sad, are full of such pain as might make weep even the devils who sell their husbands drink. Those eyes have wept their bitterness in tears so often till at last they can weep no more, and the weariness of despair has settled in their depths. One wonders if a smile can ever light them up again. Poor, patient, loyal wifehood! How endless have seemed the nights you have walked the floor, hour after hour, waiting for the step of the husband you almost worship, and yet fearing to hear it, for you know it will stumble in drunkenness and into your arms will reel. Not [illegible] man whom you so proudly [illegible] few years since; not the ten[illegible] the loving father, the intel[illegible] companion, but something in t[illegible] of a man, senseless, idiotic, o[illegible] profane, cruel. He will rudely [illegible] push you aside with an oath and a vile epithet, which thrills you with horror and wh[illegible] memory is so burned in your hea[illegible] that his very life blood could never atone for it—and staggering to the bed will throw himself upon it with all the disorder and filth of his drunken orgie clinging to him. If he don't fall at once into an idiotic stupor he will curdle your blood with oaths, or sicken you with obscenity, or act like a madman in his cruelty.

You, with your eyes streaming with tears, some way undress him and get him under the clothes, when the poor, abused stomach refuses longer to carry its burden of poison, and he drenches you, himself, the bed, and the floor with its nauseating contents. With loathing and disgust unutterable you cleanse yourself, the bed, and him, and then, as he falls into a stupor, you throw yourself upon your knees beside him, while an agonized flood of tears pours from your eyes, and in your worse than Gethsemane anguish you moan out your soul to your God: "Oh, if he were only dead!"

If death had claimed him while the holy memories of your sweet courtship, your loving married life had never been blackened by this indelible stain; you could give him up with joy. Father, mother, brothers and sisters, knowing your grief, could pour upon your bleeding heart the tender balm of sympathy and love. But this burden, this humiliation, must be hidden. You would have your heart torn out rather than parade to the world your own and children's shame—that your husband was drunk. That must be hidden, and all alone you must bear the supremest sorrow that ever is laid on human hearts, for this is dishonor, disgrace. No sympathy can assuage that pain for who can talk to a wife of the sin of her husband?

Again you moan, "If he were only dead!" Ah, it would be a thousand fold easier to see him in his coffin, his face at least clear and beautiful and noble in death, and lay him to rest among fragrant flowers and waving grass, under the radiant sunlight and quiet stars, than to see him lying before you with the bloated, red, degraded face of a drunkard, who, ever and anon, opens his stupid eyes and gazes on you with the leer of an idiot, and an insane laugh or muttered oath escapes from his foul lips.

Had he slipped out of your arms into God's eternal summer land your heart, bleeding though it were, would bound with love every time his blessed memory swept across its chambers. Every time? Ah, there would be no times, for his memory would be a constant presence to you, pervading your entire being, and so close and sweet and real would be your spiritual communion that, instead of your love being severed or destroyed by death, it would have grown stronger, more infinitely devoted and intense. You would look forward to the time when God's angel should summon you with reverent gladness, and your weary feet would carry you as upon lightest wings, because your darling was waiting for you in that glorious beyond.

Tears of course would flow. But those tears could be wiped away by God. But even God himself cannot wipe away the bitter tears of disgrace and shame that the drunkard's wife must shed. Even God himself cannot make sin as though it had not been. His own immutable law, "At last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder," must take its course. And even he—I say it reverently—cannot bring back to the broken hearted wife the ideal husband you had almost deified. Oh, God! Oh, God! "we make our idols and we find them clay."

Had God called home your prince, your "monarch of men," you could think of him in that beautiful spirit land as treading a freer, nobler life, learning the wondrous lessons of eternity, which God himself so lovingly teaches. He would mount up on eagle's wings, going from height to height unwearied, conquering and to conquer." You would think of him as indeed the ideal of your earlier dreams, attaining a perfect manhood, with all the gross and earthly eliminated from his character and all those sweet and noble qualities which won and kept your worshiping heart perpetuated. You would think of him as developing, expanding, growing in that glorious atmosphere of heaven, till he reaches the sublime joy of the angels. Amid beauty, fragrance, music, he would travel with "stately steppings" the streets of Paradise. And best of all, you would picture him waiting and watching for your own glad home coming. He in heaven would say as you upon the earth every morning think, "Today brings my darling nearer to me." With Phoebe Cary you would pour out your heart to him in the beautiful words:

Sometimes in white raiment I see you
Treading higher and higher
On the great sheet of glass ever shining
And mingled with fire.
With the crown and the harp of the victor
Exultant you stand:
And the melody drops as if jewels
Dropped off from your hand.
* * * * *
Thus I know that you live, live forever
Free from death, free from harm;
For in dreams of the night and at noonday
Have you been in my arms.
And I know that when I shall be like you
We shall meet face to face
That all souls that are joined by affection
Are joined by God's grace.

Yes, even among the angels he longs for you with all the olden time intensity of love increasing a thousand fold. With all these blessed thoughts surging in your heart—in spite of your blinding tears your heart would glow and triumphant you could sing: "O, Death, where is thy sting? O, grave, where is thy victory?

But, oh God, to see the man you love better than your life, the kingly husband of your youth, every day sinking a little lower, every day becoming coarser, more profane, more obscene, more vile, to see him sinking into degredation, and worst of all, not realizing his shame himself, to see the God like transformed into the beast, the angel into the devil by this accursed liquid poison—can there be agony greater? Is there pain more acute, more intense?

To see your beautiful home crumbling to dust and ashes; your sweet memories turned to the most bitter remembrance; your children reduced to poverty, ruin, and shame; yourself and them objects of pity and scorn. Ah! the very fiends of pain hold you in their merciless grasp. Home means to the wife all of heaven. It means the sweetest hopes, the most sacred associations, the tenderest joy, the deepest, profoundest, all absorbing love which makes of earth a very paradise of bliss. But alas! your heaven has been turned into blackest hell; your hopes have been buried in the grave of your husband's dishonor; the sacredest associations have become the bitterest memories; the tenderest joys have turned to unutterable anguish, and the love which you thought nothing on earth could sever is changed to deadly hate. Oh! the very depths of hell can contain no greater torture, and these, indeed, must be the horrors of the damned.

In this blessed Christmas tide, when all the world resounds with the divine benediction, "Peace on earth, good will to men," a hundred thousand wives are suffering more intense anguish because of the greater attraction of the saloon at Christmas.

Oh! men! men! how much longer will you war upon this army of patient, gentle wives—many of them, alas! your own sisters and daughters—by the continued legal enthronement of the saloon by your ballot?

THE PASSING SHOW.

Home Life of the Dramatist Henrik Ibsen.

THE PERILS OF A CALIFORNIA WINTER

Clay M. Greene's Success and His New Play—Dates Ahead and Who Are to Fill Them.

The conversation is upon Henry Ibsen, the new apostle of modern drama. All who have been making a study of this prominent writer's works will be interested in learning somewhat of his personal life, and the experiences and feelings that have tinged his poetry.

Henrik Ibsen was born March 20, 1828, in the small Norwegian town of Skien, amid circumstances of very precarious prosperity. His parents belonged to families of the highest standing in the town. When a mere lad he was an apprentice in a drug store. After working his way through countless difficulties he was able at the age of 22 to enter on a student's career, but for a long time he was unable to secure regular meals. For the brief space of nine weeks he was the publisher of a weekly newspaper. His next venture was as the stage manager of a small theater in Bergen, and afterwards he was a director in the Christiana Theater. He finally became disgusted with Norway, and after the year 1861 lived alternately in Italy, in Dresden, in Munich, and again in Italy.

He has been separated from his people without any activity that bound him to any institution, or a party, or even so much as to a magazine or a newspaper, at home or abroad—a solitary man. In his isolation he wrote:

"My people, who to me from goblet foaming
A wholesome, bitter draught of strength once gave,
That roused the poet, flinging near his grave
To arm himself and labor through the gloaming—
My people, who on me the exile's slave,
With sorrow's script and sandals swift for roaming,
Bestowed, the outfit stern for strife completing—
From distant realms I send thee home my greeting."

Ibsen is a born idealist who, from the outset of his career, thirsted for beauty in its highest forms, as purely ideal, spiritual beauty. There was developed in him, through his very yearning for the ideal, a peculiar faculty for discovering everything to be spurious. It became an instinct with him to apply a crucial test to whatever seemed genuine, and to feel little, if any astonishment, when he proved it to be false.

Henrik Ibsen's personal appearance is suggestive of the qualities manifested in his writings. His face reflects a soul full of tenderness that, even though disguised by the stern or sacastic earnestness of his physiognomy, will at times make itself apparent. He is below the medium height, heavily built, and dresses with a certain style and elegance, giving him altogether a very distinguished appearance. His gait is slow, his bearing dignified, and his carriage worthy. His head is large, interesting, framed with a wealth of grizzled hair, which he wears pretty long. The forehead, which is his dominating feature, is high and broad and bears the impress of greatness and marked intellectual vigor. In repose his mouth is tightly compressed, betraying the fact that he is a man of but few words. When he smiles his kind, delicate smile penetrates and animates the mask of his countenance, and all that is cordial and heartfelt, all that lies deepest in his soul rises uppermost. There is another expression, however, which his face too often wears which expresses impatience, anger, righteous indignation, cutting scorn, and this is the expression his poetic soul has most frequently assumed before the world.

Ibsen finds mankind to be simply wrong-doers, not vicious by nature, —and stupid because wicked. He finds the average mortal petty, egotistic, worthless. It is apparent to the observer that he is a satiric poet, a brooding thinker, but not a visionary. He says himself:—"My calling is to question, not to answer," and minds like Ibsen's have no tendency to conceit. Among his writings may be mentioned, "Love's Comedy," "A Model Home," "Apparitions," "The Young Men's Union," "The Wild Duck," "The Lonely One."

A California Dramatist.

One evening recently Clay M. Greene and Joaquin Miller were both present at a dinner given in San Francisco to a distinguished visitor. Mr. Greene made a characteristic after dinner address, full of wit and satire. When, later, the poet Miller spoke, he referred with tears in his voice to the young California dramatist, saying in a conversational way across the dining hall: "My boy, I wish your father could hear you." Clay Greene is a California boy. His thoughts turned naturally to the stage. As an actor he once rose high enough to receive $50 a week, but he knew he could not act, and he turned to development of his crescent talent for dramatic composition. He left California and moved to New York. His plays were successful, and now his income is said to be $10,000 a year. Recently he made a visit to California and remained several months. He is again at New York making new plays and amending old ones to order. One of his new plays is "Hans, the Boatman," which is to be presented at the Oakland Theater on Tuesday evening and Wednesday (Christmas) afternoon and evening of next week. The play is a pretty comedy with a good story and is interpreted by an excellent company, at the head of which is Charles Arnold. A part of the play is particularly interesting to children, therefore "Hans" is a seasonable Christmas drama. Manager Stilwell of the Oakland Theater intends on Tuesday evening to entertain the newsboys of Oakland, providing them with the best seats in the house, without any charge.

This evening the last performance of Lew Johnson's minstrels will be given at the Oakland Theater.

Dates ahead at the Oakland Theater are as follows:

December 30th and 31st and January 1st—James M. Ward and Carrie Clarke Ward in the Alcazar Theater success, "Ranch 10."

January 6th and 7th—Gill & Fraser's "Spider and the Fly."

January 13th—The Howard Athenæum Specialty Company.

January 17th and 18th—J. H. Hill's company in a "A Possible Case."

January 20th and 21st—Vernona Jarbeau.

January 27th and 28th—The Emma Juch Grand Opera Company.

In San Francisco.

The Duff Opera Company played at the Baldwin this week the tuneful opera "Paola," by Paulton and Jakobowski. The opera is hardly equal to "Erminie," made by the same men, but it gives a pleasant evening's entertainment. The Duff Company will make a special production of the spectacular opera "The Queen's Mate" for the holiday season, beginning next Monday evening. This opera will be gorgeously embellished by stage decorations and costumes.

"Hans, the Boatman," closing its engagement at the California Theater this week, the Howard Athenæum Company, the best specialty company in the country, will take the stage next Monday evening. The name of the company is sufficient to crowd the theater.

The pantomimic burlesque "Spider and Fly" will be played at the Bush Street Theater next week. This burlesque was very successful in Chicago recently.

At the Alcazar Theater the stock company that this week played "The World Against Her" will play "Mankind" next week.

Signor Campobello, Annie Gleason, Ida Valerga, Charles Thrower, Theresa Harnet, and Signor Panizza are giving creditable performances of opera at the Bijou Theater.

Jay Rial is perfectly satisfied to continue "The Great Metropolis" at the Grand Opera House.

The Tivoli company will next week produce "Aida," something more ambitious than usually attempted at this popular place of amusement.

Matinee performances will be given at the San Francisco theaters on Christmas day.

Splinters From the Boards.

Judge Laidlaw's sentence of himself is the theme of a stanza of Digby Bell's topical song in "Paola" now playing at the Baldwin, San Francisco.

Kate Castleton, Joe Jefferson, C. H. Sothern and the Casino brigade are the only shows that drew money in Philadelphia last week.

Arrangements are being made with Al Hayman to take "Bluebeard" and "The Crystal Slipper" to California. "The City Directory" is also booked for three weeks at Hayman's California Theater. The recent additions to the City Directory Company are Miss Marguerite Fish, formerly known as "Baby Benson," and Amsela Glover, popularly called the "Little Fawn."

On one occasion when Modjeska was playing at the Globe, said a late resident of Boston, she required a bier to lie upon in one of her scenes, and it not having been provided, the Polish countess sent to Stetson stating that she wanted a bier.

"Wants a beer, does she?" said Stetson, "well she can want and be blowed. I ain't providing beer for these outlandish players. Tell her she can't have it." The messenger returned to Modjeska with Stetson's answer. The Countess was furious. "Go to Mr. Stetson," she said, "and tell him unless I have a bier I will not go on in the next act."

The messenger duly repeated the message.

"She won't, won't she?" screamed Stetson; "well, we'll see if she won't. That's the way with these furriners, they always want beer, beer, beer." Then as if relenting, he took 50 cents from his pocket and said with a deep sigh: "I suppose I'll have to let her have it. Here, go and get her a gallon." It is needless to say the Countess got her bier.

Another London Gaiety Company has come over to cheer up America. It began work last night at the Broadway Theater, with an uncommonly big crowd looking on. The performance was a highly colored mixture of dancing, singing and puaning. The whole is called "Faust up to Date," and the plot, as much as there is of it, is stolen from the lamented Goethe. All the characters in "Faust" appear. The males are all humorous, at least in intention. The females, with a few exceptions in tights, make no secret of the fact that they rely largely upon their underclothing for success in winning the hearts of the American people. No aggregation of talent has ever brought to our shores so many lace skirts; no production has ever equalled this one as regards lace and silk underfixings generally. The notion that fine underclothing is intended as a source of pride and comfort to the eye of the possessor only may be looked upon as exploded so far as these young women from over the sea are concerned.—New York Sun criticism.

How to Break a Prairie Fire.

Chicago Herald.

A Western genius has invented a machine for burning a "fire break," or fighting fire with fire in a way more effective than the old-fashioned methods. Among the perils of the farmers in the far West are prairie fires and it is generally the custom to burn off a strip of land with fire that can be controlled and leave the advancing flames no material to feed on. The machine which he has invented is designed to do this work, and it consists of a petroleum gas generator on wheels, with perforated gas pipes, which emit small flames as it is driven over the grass. If the fire-break is a success it will be a big thing to the prairie farmers, but they will never be really happy until they get a reliable cyclone and blizzard break.

WHO READ THEM?

The Subscription Lists of the Big Magazines.

GLADSTONE READS ADVERTISEMENTS

Making Up a Magazine—Millet's Success—A Short Word to Literary Inquirers.

NEW YORK, December 17.—The subscription lists of the large magazines reveal some interesting facts, if one has the opportunity of studying them, and the composite impression one receives after glancing over four or five is a peculiar knowledge in itself. It convinces one, in the first place, that seven eighths of the subscribers to the magazine literature of today are of the female sex. On the list of one magazine I have counted 780 names successively before coming to that of a man. Divide the lists into States and there is another surprise. You will see, for example, that Iowa is the most productive of all the States for the magazine publisher—that is, there are more subscribers to magazines in Iowa, proportionately, than in any other single State in the Union. The next is Connecticut, and then in order comes New York, Massachusetts, Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and so on. The clergy also form a very large part of the subscription lists. Of famous men in public life, the names of Secretary Bayard, ex-President Hayes, Senator Edmunds and George W. Childs are most frequently encountered. Mr. Gladstone's name appears on the lists of two American magazines, the reason for the preference of the American editions being his desire to follow the advertising pages as a guide to American industries and new ideas. Foreign subscribers innumerable attest to the the wonderful circulation of American magazines abroad, one periodical having regular paid subscribers in forty-six of the sixty nations of the civilized world.

THE POET SWINBURNE'S HEALTH.

The rumor that Swinburne is very ill has no foundation in fact. It is a rumor that is sent on its travels every six months only to be denied by the poet or his friends. A London letter just to hand tells me that he has never been in better condition than now, and that he is able to take almost as much physical as mental exercise. He receives a great many visitors, occasionally dines out, and keeps the run of all that is going on in the world of letters. He is contented and happy, although his works do not seem to have so large a sale as his most eager friends anticipated. He is particularly kind to Americans, and especially enjoys the social calls of James Russell Lowell. He has seen a great deal of our ex-minister, and admires him for his personal qualities as well as for his ability as a poet. Swinburne is also an admirer of another American, who, though not so well known, has done creditable work, and gives promise of better things. It is Marion Crawford, who shows his loyalty to the stars and stripes by his determination to spend the winter in Washington. A friend of Mr. Swinburne recently pointed out a strange fact to me. It was that very few portraits of the poet had been painted in comparison with the portraits of other English poets and men of letters. This man was only able to recall only one portrait of him in his maturity; that by G. F. Watts Rosetti, it will be remembered, painted him as a young man, and there is extant a very striking likeness of the boy poet by William Bell Scott.

MAKING UP THE BIG MAGAZINES.

A writer of some reputation who ought to know all about magazines and magazing publishing asked me a day or two ago if I thought it too late to get the Century to print an article in their January number. He seemed to be quite astounded when I told him that I happened to know that all the big magazines were now working upon their March issues, that the January numbers all printed and complete, were well on their way to distant points, and that the February numbers were already on the presses. When one considers that it takes from six to seven weeks to print and bind a single issue of one of the great magazines, it will be seen that the editions do not go to press too early. The illustrations still further complicate matters, as it takes fully two months to provide an article with engravings such as are made nowadays. Thus I remember that early last summer the Scribners were hurrying forward the preparation of the article on Emin Pacha, which appeared in the November number, and even fearful lest Emin would turn up in Europe before the article could appear. Another trouble the magazine makers have which few people hardly realize comes from the conditions of printing a finely illustrated periodical. A newspaper goes to press at 1 o'clock in the morning and the machine begins to throw out papers by the thousand, but to put a "form" of a magazine to press is a very different matter. Usually three and often five days are occupied "making ready" the impression to get it as near as possible to perfection. The man who will invent a printing press which will print fine cuts as rapidly as the great web presses turn out newspapers has an everlasting fortune assured him.

FRANK MILLET'S MERITED SUCCESS.

In a previous letter I had occasion to refer to Frank Millet, the artist-author, as leading an easy life in London among his books and pictures. This led a paragrapher to refer slightingly to him in a recent note now circulating through the press. I hardly think the slight is justified by the facts. Frank Millet has won his position and present pleasant life by hard work and genuine merit. He is just past 40, and looks scarcely 30. In his boyish days he had a mania for newspaper work, and soon after his graduation from Harvard appeared suddenly as the war correspondent of the London Daily News in the Turko-Russian trouble in 1877-78. It was a great surprise to his Cambridge friends, among whom he had lived much of his life, to hear that young Millet has gone to the front as a war correspondent; but it was the making of him, and gave him a strong position in England, which he has steadily held ever since. Millet was not only a clever, clear-headed writer, but was blessed also with a most absolute self-command, which served him in good stead. Add to this his skill with the pencil, and it is easily seen how, with his dispatches in the Daily News and his war sketches in the Illustrated News, he soon became widely famous throughout England. He is now reaping the reward. He paints a picture in England and sells it here for a round sum, then paints a picture here and takes it to England to balance accounts. About two paintings in a twelvemonth is his stint and he never crowds his market. In his writing he suits himself, but whatever he does do he asks—and receives—large prices for. In appearance he is short, thick-set, by no means handsome, and not in the least "distinguished looking," as the girl of the period would say, yet he has an honest, kindly face and is extremely popular with both artists and writers. So his success seems earned.

A WORD TO LITERARY INQUIRERS.

I crave permission to say to readers of my weekly literary budget that much as I should like so to do, I cannot answer, in print, the inquiries which they continually send to me. It is my endeavor, in the course of a year, to treat upon all question of authorship and literary interest, and if readers will follow my letters they will, almost without exception, find the subject of their queries treated in one way or another. I make this statement in print in answer to the many letters I am continually receiving which, for the most part being without specific address, I cannot acknowledge in any other way.

DOINGS OF LITERARY FOLK.

Mark Twain feels that he has earned the idle, easy going life he is leading at his Hartford home. He retires to bed early, rises late and never eats breakfast before 10 o'clock, except when his publishing business calls him to New York. "Let some of the other fellows have a chance now," says the humorist. "I am through."

I am told that Edward Bellamy has already received nearly $10,000 royalties from his famous book, "Looking Backward."

Louise Chandler Moulton denies that she has any intention of opening a coffee house in Boston, as some literary paragrapher has caused to be rumored about.

Augusta Evans Wilson, the Southern authoress, is such a victim to hay fever as to recently render her incapable of doing any literary work.

Mrs. Humphry Ward has promised to review Marie Bashkirtseff's journal for an early number of Macmillan's Magazine.

A friend just back from England tells me that Browning is the most sought after man in literary London. He is not particularly well liked by authors and artists, for he has many personal peculiarities that are not pleasant. But he is a literary lion, always in demand in West End drawing rooms and in country houses. He dresses queerly, sometimes in a velvet coat with very light trousers and all sorts of peculiar jewelry or gaudy neckwear, or something that will attract attention. He receives more letters perhaps than any other author and they are on all sorts of subjects. A great many of these come from the United States, and particularly from New England, where Browning seems to have a firmer hold than upon any other portion of the community.

A little booklet, most exquisitely made, which has been privately printed, gives the history of the firm of Messrs. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., the Boston publishers. I am fortunate in owning a copy of this pamphlet, which, no doubt, will some day figure among the "rare and curious" in booksellers' catalogues.

Maud Howe Elliott and Amelia B. Edwards are among the literary women who will speak before the Nineteenth Century Club of New York during the coming winter.

The elaborately illustrated edition of "Lorna Doone" is reported as having a brisk holiday sale.

Grave Cause for Anxiety

Exists when the kidneys lose their activity. Prompt measures should be taken to renew it, otherwise Bright's disease, diabetes, or some other organic trouble, is to be apprehended as a consequence. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a most desirable diuretic: as its stimulative action upon these organs never crosses the border line of safety and merges into irritation, as do many stimulants used for the same purpose by the careless and uninstructed. The stimuli of commerce, fiery and unmedicated, are not suitable corrective agents in a case like this. They excite without reducing a permanently desirable result. The "just medium" between them and an ineffectual diuretic is the Bitters, which is also a specific for malarial complaints, dyspepsia, constipation and rheumatism.

The Cream of Tartar used in DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER is the strongest and free from all lime and other impurities. Prof. PETER COLLIER, Chief Chemist for the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

I have several times examined baking powders in the market to determine their purity, raising power and influence on the health of those using them. I have uniformly found Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder the best in all respects. Its raising power it stands at the head. It is a pure, clean, elegant and healthful preparation. I have used "Price's" in my family for years.—Prof. R. C. KEDZIE, Late President Michigan State Board of Health.

HAIR ON THE FACE, NECK, ARMS OR ANY PART OF THE PERSON

EASILY, QUICKLY AND SAFELY REMOVED WITH

MODENE

AND THE GROWTH DESTROYED WITHOUT INJURY OR DISCOLORATION TO THE SKIN.

DISCOVERED BY ACCIDENT. In compounding another preparation, the incomplete mixture was accidentally spilled on the back of the hand, and on washing afterward it was discovered that the hair was completely removed. We purchased the new discovery and named it MODENE. It is perfectly pure, free from all injurious substances, and guaranteed to be as harmless as water. It is so simple any one can use it, and you will be surprised and delighted with the results. It acts mildly but surely. Apply for a few minutes, then wash off and the hair goes with it. It has no connection whatever with any other preparation ever used for like purposes, and no scientific discovery ever obtained such wonderful results. IT CANNOT FAIL. If the hair be thin and fine, one application will remove it permanently. The heavy growth, such as may occur on the face of ladies, may require two or more applications before all the roots are destroyed, although all hair will be removed each application. Young persons who find an embarrassing growth of hair coming, should use Modene to early destroy its growth.

Recommended by all who have tested its merits—Used by people of refinement.

Gentlemen who do not appreciate nature's gift of a beard, will find a priceless boon in Modene, which does away with shaving. It penetrates the hair follicle or sac and destroys the life principle, thereby rendering its future growth an utter impossibility. Modene sent by mail, in safely mailing cases, postage paid, securely sealed from observation, on receipt of price, $1.00. Largest size bottle, containing three times as much Modene, and sufficient for any case, $2.00 per bottle. Send money by letter, with your full address written very plainly. Correspondence strictly private. Postage stamps received the same as cash. (BE SURE TO MENTION YOUR COUNTY AND THIS PAPER.) Address,

AGENTS WANTED. MODENE MANUFACTURING CO., CINCINNATI, O. MANUFACTURERS OF THE HIGHEST GRADE HAIR PREPARATIONS. You can register your letter at any post-office and insure its safe delivery. GENERAL AGENTS AND ADVERTISERS WANTED.

$1,000 REWARD. To convince the public that Modene is an article of merit, we mail with each bottle sold a legal agreement to forfeit One Thousand Dollars to any Purchaser or Scientist, if Modene fails to permanently remove the hair, or discolores or injures the skin in the slightest manner, or produces any unpleasant sensation or feeling when applying or ever afterward. EVERY BOTTLE IS GUARANTEED.
